GRAND TRUNK UPROAR

Stir When Norman White Is Forbidden by Chairman at Hearing to Ask Fitzhugh a Question

The Grand Trunk hearing before the Railroad Committee at the State House wound up in something like an uproar this afternoon, going over until 4 p. m. tomorrow, when Senator John H. Schoonmaker of Ware, the chairman, refused to allow Norman H. White of Brookline to ask President Fitzhugh one or two questions. White is the former legislator who opposed so vigorously the merger of the Boston & Maine.

Schoonmaker declared that the Railroad Committee had voted not to permit the putting of questions by anybody except members of the committee, until they are first reduced to writing and put through the chairman.

"I certainly do not remember any such vote of the committee," said Representative Charles A. Dean of Wakefield, one of its members.

"Nor do I," said Representative Bean of Cambridge.

Representative Roger Wolcott of Milton saved the day by moving that the committee "go into executive session." There was a laugh from some citizens in the rear of the committee room, but House Chairman Ellis of Newton called attention to the fact that it was now 1:05 and that the time agreed upon for adjournment was 1 o'clock.

"Outrageous," Says White.

Mr. White, for several years one of the Progressive Republican leaders of the Legislature, denounced the Schoonmaker ruling as the "most outrageous" thing he had heard about in five years' experience. He urged strongly that there would be no obligation on the part of Fitzhugh to answer him. There seemed to be little likelihood that the committee would reverse Schoonmaker, and in executive session, indeed, they sustained him.

Several members of the Railroad Committee continued today their apparently hostile questioning of the Grand Trunk representative, although Representative James F. Cavanaugh of Everett early disclaimed hostility. Time and time again Mr. Fitzhugh was compelled to say that of course the Grand Trunk Railway is behind the Southern New England, while at thes ame time refusing to say what the Grand Trunk might or might not do about guaranteeing the Southern New England or being bound as to the Grand Trunk by any obligations the Southern New England may assume in Massachusetts.

One of the results of the day was to leave Senator Schoonmaker apparently in the light of a statesman who has attempted to suppress something.

Attridge Asks Road.

Acting Mayor John J. Attridge came up from City Hall, but made it plain he came a sa citizen, to say that in his opinion Boston cannot have too many railroads; to express hisfriendly interest in the Grand Trunk proposition, and to say at the same timet hat he would be glad to see the Canadian Pacific coming in alos. The Acting Mayor had with him copies of the "invitation" to the Grand Trunk adopted unanimously last year by the City Council, and the "indorsement" by the Council this year of the Grand Trunk petition.

Mr. Attridge had been telling how favorable the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange appeared the other night, when he addressed a Fruit and Produce banquet, and Senate Chairman Schoonmaker interrupted him to ask if he didn't know that the "Fruit and Produce Exchange endorses

U. S. Will Compel Mexico to Explain Threatening Letter

Ambassador Will Ask Madero if He Means to Hold Americans to Prevent Invasion.

MEXICO CITY, March 6.—Constitutional guarantees were ordered suspended throughout the republic today. Every person caught engaged in rebellion or brigandage will be summarily executed. An army of 70,000 men will be recruited at once to crush all revolts.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The State Department will demand that President Madero of Mexico say whether or not the statement of Manuel Calero, Minister of Foreign Affairs, that American citizens will be held as hostages against American invasion, is a threat from the government of Mexico.

Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson will be instructed to call on President Madero at once and learn the attitude of the present administration in Mexico city.

Chihuahua today was proclaimed the provisional capital of Mexico by General Pascual Orozco, commander of the Vasquista insurrectos.

Orozco is maintaining order. All saloons are closed. The rebel army soon will number 5,000 men, it is declared. Six hundred men under immediate command of Orozco are ex-federals. General Villa and his government army is still in Chihuahua, but the men are so far outnumbered by the rebels as to be ineffective.

Governor Foss Sees Richeson in Cell

Chief Executive, with His Council, Pays a Visit to the Charles Street Jail.

Governor Foss and the members of his Executive Council today visited the Charles Street Jail and at the home of Sheriff Quinn inside the jail yard were entertained at dinner. After dinner the Governor and Council were taken through the jail.

The Governor saw among the other prisoners, C. V. T. Richeson, under sentence of death for the murder of Avis Linnell.

This is the first time the Governor has seen Richeson. A petion to commute the sentence of the slayer of Avis Linnell will be presented to the Governor and Council next month. Richeson must die in the electric chair during the week beginning Sunday, November 19.

Richeson, the sheriff says, is almost insane.

'Phone Lawyer Hints That City Is Hoggish

Says His Company Cannot Reduce City Bills and Tells What City Now Gets Free.

Attorney Edward K. Hall, representing the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, continued his argument in opposition to proposed changes in the service and rates of the company in the metropolitan district, before the legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs to-day.

Mr. Hall took up first the bill presented on petition of Mayor Fitzgerald, providing that the city of Boston shall receive a discount of 50 per cent. on all telephone bills. He said the city already receives a discount of 33 1-3 per cent., and, in addition to this, the company furnishes to the city free of charge the top of each telephone pole for the fire and police signal systems, and one duct in each conduit is also furnished to the city, the result being that the company is maintaining 127 miles of duct for the use of the city, representing an investment of about $400,000.

The company naturally feels that it is paying quite enough for the privilege of doing business.

Set Quarantined Passengers Ashore

Five Hundred Persons from Liner Held Because of Smallpox Case.

More than five hundred steerage passengers from the Ascania, quarantined last week as Galloup's Island on account of a case of smallpox found on board, were released today and brought to Boston. Dr. Crawford, port physician, still has under observation about ten persons.

The Ascania docked at Portland last week, where the first and second cabin passengers were permitted to land. Then the steerage passengers were taken to Galloup's Island.

MISS AMES SUES FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Miss Alice H. Ames of Groton, through her attorney, John M. Mahoney of No. 450 Tremont building, has brought suit for $10,000 against Ralph C. Whitney of Harvard, Mass., for breach of promise. The papers were filed today with the clerk of the East Cambridge Court. Miss Ames alleges that there was a mutual agreement between her and Whitney to get married, and that she has always been willing to carry out her part of the program.

CAPT. ROBERT F. SCOTT, POLAR EXPLORER

British explorer who, according to London reports, has beaten his Norwegian rival, Amundsen, in the race for the South Pole.

MRS. CONBOY THREATENED

LAWRENCE, March 6.—Mrs. Sara A. Conboy of Boston, in charge of the relief headquarters of the Lawrence Central Labor Union, received a "Black Hand" letter to-day, threatening her life.

The letter said:

"WE WILL GET YOU TODAY."

Miss Conboy asked for police protection. She did not rush to police headquarters trembling with fright. But, as she left the relief headquarters at No. 184 Broadway to go to her lodgings for papers, she told Patrolman Lewis, a special on the Broadway beat, about the letter.

Mrs. Conboy asked Patrolman Lewis if he or some other policeman could be at the relief headquarters for a while, in view of the threatening letter.

"I am not in fear of these people," she said to Lewis, "yet I would like to have somebody around."

Mrs. Conboy walked along toward her hotel calmly. Patrolman Lewis telephoned police headquarters. Another special was sent out, with instructions to stay at the C. L. U. relief headquarters and to be particularly vigilant when Miss Conboy was in the building.

James Menzie, secretary of the C. L. U., said that the letter may have resulted from announcement that the relief headquarters of the C. L. U. is to be closed to all except those whose husbands or male relatives are positively identified with the C. L. U.

Mrs. Sara A. Conboy is an organizer for the textile unions affiliated with the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor. She came into particular prominence when she organized the girl strikers of the Roxbury Carpet Company and won the strike.

She has been in Lawrence of late, supervising the work at the Central Labor Union relief headquarters.

HAWLEY "NIECE" GETS $500,000

NEW YORK, March 6.—Miss Margaret Cameron, protege and sometimes called the niece of Edwin Hawley, has made a settlement with the heirs of the railway magnate.

Under the terms of this agreement it was learned today Miss Cameron will be paid a sum estimated at between $500,000 and $600,000. The final appraisement of the estate shows that when Hawley died he had a fortune of $17,000,000. Now that the settlement with Miss Cameron has been effected the estate will remain intact.

Young Texan Kills Slayer of His Father

Millionaire John B. Sneed Reported Shot by A. G. Boyce, Jr., Who Kills Self.

WACO, Tex., March 6.—A report was received here this noon that A. G. Boyce, Jr., shot and killed John Beal Sneed, a millionaire. The report further says that young Boyce committed suicide.

Sneed was recently on trial for the murder of Boyce's father, and after a jury was out 112 hours, it disagreed.

At the time of the trial the testimony was brought out that the elder Boyce had assisted his son in abducting Mrs. Sneed.

POLICE ARREST STRIKE LEADER

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 6.—Fred J. Wolf, organizer of the I. W. W.; George Howie, Socialist candidate for Mayor of this city, and five Greek strike leaders were arrested here today for interfering with workers legally employed in the McElwain shoe factory. Wolf was previously under bonds for violating a city ordinance—speaking in a street meeting without a permit.

A strike at this shoe factory has been in progress for some weeks and the striking employes have passed up and down the street in parade formation, but the police have never interfered with them until today.

CASH REGISTER MAN WAIVES EXTRADITION

Frederick S. High, manager of the Boston office of the Ntaional Cash Register Company, waived extradition before United States Commissioner Hayes today at the Federal building on a charge of conspiracy with various other officers of the company in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. He gave a bond of $5,000. He with the other officials will appear in Cincinnatia on April 2.

MRS. STUART IS TAKEN TO JAIL

The bail of Mrs. Georgia M. Stuart, who is charged with being an accessory before and after the larceny of $10,000 by Arthur W. Shaw, the Maine shoe manufacturer, was increased from $2,500 to $4,500 by Judge Sanderson in the Superior Court today, at the suggestion of District Attorney Pelletier. The required amount was not furnished and Mrs. Stuart was committed to the Charles street jail.

The evidence was due to the discovery of a letter written to Shaw by Mrs. Stuart. This letter was discovered by the Los Angeles police.

Shaw is accused of stealing nineteen bonds. After Mrs. Stuart was arrested as the accomplice, she returned twelve bonds to the district attorney, stating that she was not certain as to their ownership. The missing seven bonds have never been found.

The Los Angeles authorities recently sent word to District Attorney Pelletier, saying that Mrs. Stuart had written to Shaw telling him that she had turned over the twelve bonds to the district attorney, but that she knew where the other seven were.

As soon as this information was received the District Attorney prepared to have the bail increased, as he now believes that Mrs. Stuart knows more about the case than she professes to. She was summoned into the Superior Court today. She was accompanied by her attorney, Paul M. Lewis. After the judge had increased the amount Mrs. Stuart was taken to the Charles street jail.

SOUTH POLE FOUND BY CAPT. SCOTT, IS REPORT IN LONDON

If London Rumor Proves to Be True, English Explorer Has Beaten Norwegian and Japanese Expeditions to the Goal.

NO OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION.

LONDON, MARCH 6.—BULLETIN.—IT IS RUMORED HERE THIS AFTERNOON THAT CAPTAIN SCOTT, THE BRITISH EXPLORER, HAS DISCOVERED THE SOUTH POLE.

OFFICIALS OF THE ROYAL GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY STATED TODAY THAT THEY HAD HEARD THE RUMOR THAT CAPTAIN SCOTT HAD DEFEATED THE NORWEGIAN, GERMAN AND JAPANESE ANTARCTIC EXPEDITIONISTS, BUT THAT THEY HAD RECEIVED NO CONFIRMATION, AND DOUBTED ITS AUTHENTICITY

NO REPORT IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, March 6.—At the office of the New York Times, which has made arrangements for the exclusive publication of Captain Scott's story of his hunt for the South Pole, it was stated this afternoon that no advices as to his success had been received.

Captain Scott left England on June 9, 1910, waving goodby to his wife and baby at Cardiff, Wales. He bade farewell to civilization at Christ Church, New Zealand, on November 29, and since then nothing has been heard from him. His ship, the whaler Terra Nova, has returned to New Zealand and is awaiting the tlephone command to go to Stewart's Island and ge her master and pilot, as well as his brave companions.

Expedition Finely Equiped.

The Scott expedition is the best equipped that ever entered the South polar regions. Fitted out by a government appropriation of $100,000, added to a popular subscription of the same amount, everything that could possibly be of use was purchased. Over a hundred of the best Siberian sledge dogs, as well as three motor sledges, form part of the equipment, and in the party are several of the foremost scientists, geographers and astronomers in Britain.

According to the plans of Captain Scott, outlined before he departed on his polar quest, he would establish two bases on the Antartic ice barrier ,one at Mac Murdo Bay, the other at King Edward's Land, or some 450 miles apart, to be, if possible, connected by wireless telegraphy. Each of these bases would be about 850 statue miles from the South Pole and by means of them both ends of the barrier would be explored.

It is known that the Mac Murdo Bay post was securely established by Captain Scott, the news having been brought back to New Zealand by his ship, the Terra Nova.

From the Mac Murdo Bay base, over the 850 miles to the Pole, the rea lwork of the expedition had to be done. The explorer declared he expected to take from 120 to 150 days to make the journey to and from the base.

Criticism of Amundsen.

There has been much discussion by scientists and explorers over the attitude assumed by the Amundsen party in making their preparations for the South Pole dash. A large number contended that Captain Amundsen, Scott's rival in the race for the Pole, violated polar etiquette when he established his main base at the Bay of Whales, for by so doing he made it practically certain that he would take the same route as that planned by Captain Scott and previously laid out by Lieutenant Shackleton. In fact, considerable surprise was expressed when it was found that Captain Amundsen was quartered in the South Polar country, for he had started on a long cruise during which he said that he intended to drift over the North Pole. The change in his plans was made after the discovery of the North Pole by Peary and the resultant Peary-Cook controversy. This cruise was to begin at Copenhagen and proceed by way of Cape Horn and thence North and into the Pacific Ocean.

About a year ago it was learned through a dispatch from Captain Scott that the Amundsen party was about eight months ahead of him in point of preparations and that i would attempt to start at the most dangerous ime of the year. Owing to the fact that nothing had been heard from Amundsen it is thought that he delayed his start until October.

Terra Nova Sailed June 1, 1910.

The terra Nova sailed from London June 1, 1910, and was met in New Zealand by Captain Scott. She sailed from Port Chalmers, New Zealand, for the Antarctic regions on November 29 of the same year, her captain hoping to reach the South Pole in December, 1911, and excel Shackleton's record of 1909. This is the first news since that date that has come to the world of the whereabouts and plans of the intrepid British navigator. His effort to excel in the south, even as Peary has in the north, appealed so strongly to the British people that his ship and outfit were prepared at the cost of $200,000 and sent forth as a national enterprise.

He commanded the national Antarctic expedition of 1904 in the ship Discovery, and returned with invaluable new data respecting the vast region investigated.

The ship Terra Nova originally was one of the largest and strongest of the old Scottish whalers, and was first used in polar exploration as a relief ship on the Discovery expedition. Two years later she went in the service of a North Pole expedition to Franz Joseph Land.

Captain Roald Amundsen, with the Fram, Nansen's old ship, under the auspices of the King and Queen of Norway, set sail in June, 1910, for a voyage that was announced as especially for the study of the oceanography of the northern polar region. His course was to be from Christiania to

STRIKE INVESTIGATION FOR THE AMERICAN

At the request of the American, a committee consisting of the following prominent Boston men has consented to go to Lawrence and make a careful investigation of living conditions in that city and make a report of its findings to Congress and Governor Foss:

Lorin F. Deland, chairman.

Francis M. Carroll, Secretary. Mr. Carroll is President of the Boston Rotary Club, which has a membership of 300 business men.

William E. Butler, Merchant, and President of the William S. Butler Company.

The Rev. William H. Van Allen, pastor of the Church of the Advent.

Charles F. Dole, president of the Twentieth Century Club.

This committee will make its first trip to Lawrence early tomorrow.

APPEAL FOR AID FOR HUNGRY LAWRENCE MILL STRIKE CHILDREN

SHEPHERD DECLARES MORE FUNDS MUST BE FORWARDED TO FEED SUFFERERS.

An earnest appeal to the readers of the AMERICAN is made today by Walter Shepherd in behalf of the starving children of the strikers of the Lawrence mills. Mr. Shepherd has been feeding between 2,000 and 3,000 of the hungry, half-clad tots and he has been delving into the tenements from which the little ones come.

Mr. Shepherd and his associates have been amazed at the suffering that has followed in the wake of the big strike. He needs more money at once to help carry on this noble charity. In this connection the man or woman who gives promptly gives twice.

At the request of the AMERICAN a committee of prominent Boston men will go to Lawrence tomorrow and begin a rigid investigation of living conditions among the poor of that city. A report of what they find will be made to Governor Foss and to Congress.

The ability and character of the men who compose the committee insure a report that will be accurate in every particular. The members of the committee are as follows:

Lorin F. Deland, chairman, business expert; Francis M. Carroll, lawyer and president of the Boston Rotary Club; William E. Butler, merchant and president of the William S. Butler Company; Rev. Dr. William H. Van Allen, pastor of the Church of the Advent, and Rev. Dr. Charles F. Dole, president of the Twentieth Century Club.

Mr. Shepherd today sent out, through the AMERICAN, this appeal for funds for food for the Lawrence strike children:

Mr. Shepherd's Appeal.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I want to make an appeal to the readers of the Boston AMERICAN in behalf of the starving children of Lawrence.

A little over a week ago our soup kitchen was opened for the poor children of Lawrence. From 2,000 to 3,000 children have been fed daily.

As these tots rush in to be fed, the sights presented continuously are pitiful in the extreme. Many of the little ones shiver from the cold. Their shoes in many instances are so badly worn that their bare feet are on the frozen ground.

Appeals by these children for "bread for mamma" have brought tears to the eyes of many visitors. These appeals for bread caused a thorough investigation of conditions in the tenement district.

We were amazed to find the suffering that exists in Lawrence. Miss Ridgway, my assistant, and a nurse visited several homes today. Miss Ridgway made this statement:

In all of my twenty-two years' experience in missionary work, I never saw such poverty.

I myself have worked in other cities and have been in what they call "Cat Alleys" and "Pie Alleys," but I have never seen anything to compare with the conditions in Lawrence.

The people of Lawrence may have done what they could to better conditions, but in my opinion they have not seen enough nor have they gone far enough toward relieving the suffering among the poor in the crowded districts.

I am at a loss to know what the Associated Charities have been doing, as I have not seen any of their work or heard anything about it, even though they have made the statement that they are taking care of all the poor of Lawrence.

If there isn't a city or State investigation very soon, Lawrence will be confronted with a serious epidemic in addition to the strike.

When we started this soup kitchen and thousands of hungry children crowded around the door two hours before we opened, Lawrence people were cut to the quick because we had begun a work that they should have taken upon themselves. This is the statement Mrs. Rodgers Rutter, M. D., one of our interested workers, made to me:

"I have been a resident of Lawrence and a practicing physician here for over thirty years and have never seen a work more needed or one more welcome at this time than the soup kitchen."

We are in great need of more money to carry on this work of humanity among the poor children of this distressed city.

WALTER SHEPHERD.

Lawrence, March 6, 1912.

The Mayor's Statement.

Mayor Michael A. Scanlon of Lawrence in a telegram to the AMERICAN today makes this statement:

"Mr. Shepherd says that he is now short of funds with which to carry on the work of feeding the children on the scale on which he started, but he will keep his kitchen open.

"Citizens and officials of Lawrence are now, as they always have been, ready to take care of anybody in need, children or adults. The director of public health and charities is to see Shepherd."

The American Federation of Labor is doing good work toward looking after the needy people of Lawrence. They have relief rooms on Broadway, and they have a corps of investigators looking up families that have applied for aid.

The relief station is in charge of Mr. Menzie of the Central Labor Union. He agrees with Mr. Shepherd in his statement that there is much poverty and a great deal of actual hunger in Lawrence.

A. F. of L. Supplies Lunches.

Mr. Menzie said that he did not believe in the method used by Mr. Shepherd, because, he said, it was likely that boys would appear and receive food who had been fed elsewhere.

The American Federation of Labor is supplying lunches to some of the schools. The janitor gets the food and takes it to his school room and it is given to children who are greatly in need of it.

Mr. Menzie has spent $10,000 since the relief station was opened. He said that it had been used for shoes, clothing, food and fuel. He needs more money and tomorrow will issue a complete statement of the money received and expended.

At the headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World on Mason street there was a cheerful atmosphere. This arose from the conviction of the strikers that their fight is about to be won.

Money has been pouring into the organization daily. The amount on hand today totalled about $12,000. Mr. Riley, one of the strike committee, said today that no one was ever refused food at any of their kitchens.

"Can you take over the 3,000 children fed by Mr. Shepherd?" he was asked.

"Yes, we have money enough to take care of all the children. There is no need for any child to go hungry in Lawrence."

The thirteen strike children who were taken to Washington to tell to a congressional committee the story of the Lawrence textile mill conditions are today on their way back home and will reach Boston late this afternoon.

The children and others who accompanied them caused widespread talk and newspaper comment by their appearance in Washington. Mrs. Taft, the wife of the President, attended one of the sessions of the committee when the children were there.

A committee of the strikers left Lawrence today to confer with President William W. Wood of the American Woolen Company in Boston, in an effort to bring about a settlement of the strike.

Benefit Is Planned.

Plans for a benefit in aid of the Lawrence strikers were begun today in Boston. Final arrangements will be made by the committee in charge at the Central Labor Union headquarters, in Wells Memorial building, tomorrow night.

The movement was started by the girl members of the Roxbury Textile Workers' Union, and indorsed by the Central Labor Union. At a preliminary meeting of the volunteer committee which is to have charge of the affair, the following officers were elected:

Mrs. Sara A. Conboy, president of the Roxbury Textile Workers' Union, chairman; Burt Spere, office secretary of the White Rats (actors' union), secretary; G. Harry Dunderdale of the News Writers' Union, treasurer.

The date and place for the benefit, which will be in the form of a big concert, will be announced later, as well as the bill of attractions. Voluntary offers of assistance to help make the coming event a big success have been received from the union actors, stage employes, moving picture operators and the musicians.

Twelve Arrests Made.

Twelve arrests were made in Lawrence today on charges of assault, intimidation and disturbing the peace. It was the most riotous morning of the week. Reports were made that pepper had been used freely in the street mixups.

The mill men estimated that since they made their concessions to the strikers approximately 2,500 operatives had returned to work. They are practically all English speaking people and are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The Industrial Workers of the World, whose body of about 8,000 members is still intact and still on strike, have appointed committees to visit the operatives at their homes at night to persuade them to keep up the strike.

Parades of from a hundred to more than a thousand people formed and reformed in the streets of Lawrence, marching till broken up by the police.

The parades were led, in most cases by Mrs. Annie Welzenbach and Pearl McGill, strike leaders. The efforts of the police were devoted to segregating these two from the crowds, and while neither was arrested, in several cases they were cut off from their followers.

The crowds of strikers, men and women, made a weak resistance to the police, who sought to scatter them, but the organized work of the patrolmen succeeded in each case in dispersing the gatherings. Five women and three men, one with a pocket full of pepper, were arrested and taken to the police station.

The crowds laughed and jeered at the police. Threats were shouted.

Pickets crowded the streets leading to the mills, and attempted as usual to prevent or dissuade workers from returning to the mills. The police were posted at strategic points to prevent trouble.

A parade of almost 2,000 people along Common street brushed past several patrolmen and defied the efforts of the police to disperse the crowd till they reached the police station. There reserves were called out and the leaders, Miss McGill and Mrs. Welzenbach, were separated from their followers, who then scattered.

In the course of a disturbance on Canal street a horse belonging to Sergeant Thomas McCarthy became frightened and ran away. The animal attempted to cross the railroad bridge over the canal, but fell through the ties, and efforts to extricate it were thwarted by the animal's own struggles.

It is still undecided whether children will be sent to Philadelphia tomorrow, as planned, or not. The Philadelphia offer is still open, and the children's committee has been instructed to try to gather a good number to make the trip. If they are successful, the children will leave Lawrence early tomorrow.

The Citizen's Committee is investigating the attitude of the Wellesley faculty and authorities toward the act of Professor Vida D. Scudder and Professor Ellen Hayes, who addressed the strikers at a meeting at the Colonial Theatre here the other night.

The members of the committee claim that the meeting was held in violation of the police order against mass meetings and necessitated the calling of squads of police to disperse the crowd that gathered.

Persons in Lawrence who have children at Wellesley will be asked to protest to the Wellesley trustees against the action of the professors.

A [illegible] has been started in the [illegible] bardt Mill that the pay of weavers is to be advanced from 5 to 15 per cent., the latter being what the strikers have been demanding.

The American Woolen Company has given out a statement that the loomfixers and weavers have voted to return to work in the four mills of this company.

This action is in line with that of several craft unions, but it does not mean that the mills will be able to resume. The unskilled trade whose labor feeds the weavers are necessary before much real operation can be done.

The troops will be withdrawn from here Monday, it is announced today.

MRS. TAFT AGAIN AT HEARING UPON TEXTILE STRIKE

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The "other side" of the Lawrence strike presented by the civil authorities of the mill city engaged the attention of the House Committee on Rules today. For four days the committee has heard stories of the alleged brutality of the police and militia and the deplorable conditions under which the poverty stricken workers of Lawrence live.

Some of these stories of oppression shocked and taxed the credulity of the committee, and Chairman Henry announced today that the committee would hear both sides before determining whether a federal investigation was necessary.

William D. Haywood reached Washington today prepared to take up the defence of the Industrial Workers of the World, the labor organization to which many of the foreign-born strikers belong.

Haywood said he had come to Washington "to offset the adverse sentiment created by the testimony of Samuel Gompers, president of A. F. of L., and John Golden, president of the Textile Workers' Union."

While Gompers and Golden resented the treatment of the workmen at Lawrence, a bit of trades union jealousy has cropped out during the hearing, as the Industrial Workers of the World is an organization not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Mrs. Taft at Hearing.

Mrs. Taft was again a spectator today and occupied a seat directly behind Chairman Henry.

The first lady of the land, however, did not hear today such pitiable stories as were related yesterday by the oppressed and poverty-stricken strikers, for today's session was devoted to an explanation by the police authorities of Lawrence regarding the part played by them in the industrial war in the Massachusetts town.

C. F. Lynch, Commissioner of Public Safety for Lawrence, resumed the witness stand, and again became disconcerted when pressed by the committee members to furnish a reason for the drastic action of the police force.

"Under what law," asked Representative Stanley, "did you prevent these children from going to Philadelphia where arrangements had been made to care for them?"

"I did not look up the law, but I understood there was a law," said Lynch, confusedly.

"Did you ever read such a law?" continued Mr. Stanley.

"I did not," answered Lynch.

"I thought not," said Mr. Stanley.

"Did you order the police to arrest these children and their mothers and put them in jail?" continued Stanley.

"I left that to a man with police experience," said Lynch.

Captain J. C. Sullivan of the Lawrence police, the next witness, was asked why an Italian boy was stabbed in the back by a soldier. Sullivan said he understood the boy was attempting to push a soldier off the bridge and another militiaman had bayonetted him. No formal report was filed concerning the instance, he said.

"Who led the strikers in the street parade?" asked Chairman Henry.

Parades Led by Women.

"There were no strike leaders in the streets," he answered. "The leaders generally appeared at the meetings. The street parades were usually led by women and children, and sometimes the women held children in their arms."

Captain Sullivan said the strikers formed sidewalk parades and would walk with locked arms, knocking everybody off the sidewalk.

Describing the "Union street riot," in which a woman and an officer were killed, Captain Sullivan said:

"I do not believe a soldier killed that woman. We think we know the man, and we are going to get him yet. The woman was killed by the same man, according to my opinion, who shot and killed the officer, Benoit. During the same riot another officer was stabbed in the back. I do not think any one intended to do any killing, and the riot was started for pure devilment, and to raise trouble between the strikers and the police."

In his description of the progress of the strike, Captain Sullivan said it was necessary to close the saloons for several days, that business was at a standstill, and shopkeepers were in a state of terror. One method employed by the strikers, he said, was to march through the stores from front to back doors without purchasing anything, in order to intimidate the merchants.

The police officer testified that Leader Ettor was seen about the mills giving directions to the strikers, but he generally disappeared in time of trouble.

Denies Any Brutality.

Captain Sullivan denied emphatically the stories of brutality by the police, asserting that no women with children had been clubbed and that the detention of the children on the morning of February 24 was orderly.

He admitted that fifteen children and their mothers had been put in a truck wagon and sent to the police station when the children attempted to board the train. This, he said, was because the mothers had refused to say a single word indicating whether they were the parents or legal guardians of the children who were to be sent to Philadelphia.

"I took twenty-four men with me to the station that morning," said the police chief. "I found the station and platform crowded and ordered the police to clear it of all persons without business there. Then I went into the station and found about 100 children and their mothers there. I told the parents that if they were sending their children away because they feared they could not be taken care of in Lawrence they were acting under a misapprehension.

"I promised the city would care for the children and invited all who believed me to return home. All except fifteen children and about eight women complied. When these remained I told them again that we were willing to care for them, and also asked them if they were the legal guardians of the children and if the women there had a right to send them away. I received not one word in answer. Shortly after 7 o'clock the women started with the children to the train. I did line up the policemen in two rows and we stopped them from taking the train. They were put into an automobile truck and sent to the station. No person was clubbed, not a drop of blood was spilled and there were no abuses."

Why Let a Few Win All The Prizes?

Even in the best regulated stores mistakes sometimes happen. It is in order that these may be promptly called to our attention that we offer 5.00 reward for any EXAGGERATION or MISREPRESENTATION. But when these mistakes do happen the group of women who report them to us is limited to a few. Many more women can share in these prizes.

Why not get your share of the money we pay to keep our advertising absolutely truthful?

It is not hard to do this. If you find a garment that is not Automatically Reduced when it should be, the 5.00 reward is yours—It may take only a minute to do this, by looking over the merchandise. If merchandise is not on sale exactly as we say it is, the 5.00 reward is yours—check up the advertisements and see if the lots are exactly as advertised, but if you do this you must come early, otherwise the lot is apt to be broken or entirely sold out.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip, which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50 cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

Massachusetts Women Rally to Save Mrs. Cusumano from Chair

◆ ◆ ◆

Strong Movement to Aid Prisoner and to Abolish Death Penalty

Activity Begins on Beacon Hill to Prevent Execution in June.

The women of Massachusetts were called on to-day to save Mrs. Lena Cusumano from the electric chair. Wives and mothers were urged to spare Massachusetts the record of executing a woman in this twentieth century. Abolition of the death penalty was advocated, with the case of Mrs. Cusumano as a specified issue.

Mrs. Florence T. Spooner, president of the Society for the Abolition of the Death Penalty, issued a call today for Massachusetts women to work for Mrs. Cusumano and the abolition of the death penalty.

"There is no time," said Mrs. Spooner, "so fitting for the women of Massachusetts to rise and show how they feel on the subject as now, when one of their own sex is under sentence of death."

Suffragists to Give Aid.

The equal suffragists, or the woman suffragists, as they are generally called, are swept in the "Cusumano case." Miss Margaret L. Foley, one of the most prominent and aggressive women in the equal suffrage movement in Massachusetts, says it will be a disgrace to the Commonwealth if Lena Cusumano is suffered to die in the electric chair.

At the same time Mrs. Spooner, Miss Foley and other leaders were agitating the cause of Lena Cusumano among the women of the State, the legislative struggle on the case began today on Beacon Hill. This came in form of debate in the House on a proposal to abolish capital punishment.

Argued on Beacon Hill.

The argument is made that no woman has been executed in Massachusetts since the hanging of the unfortunates known to history as the Salem witches.

Governor Foss favors abolition of the death penalty. Many influential men, as well as women, throughout the State believe executions are legalized murder and relics of barbarism. Mrs. Cusumano is now in Plymouth jail, and will be brought to Charlestown, where she is to be executed the week beginning June 2.

Mrs. Spooner's statement follows:

By MRS. FLORENCE T. SPOONER.

If the women o fthis State are really in earnest, and are anxious to work with us this is the day. Work while it is day, for the night comes quickly. I want to urge every woman in the State who believes that the death penalty should be abolishe dto show it, and not only to sympathize with us, but to write to the representatives in the Legislature and to the members of the Governor's Council and make their opinions known in every way.

Our society has been placed in a false position by people who claim that in opposing capital punishment we are taking the side of murderers, and that we disbelieve in the right of the State to take human life. We know that the State has he right to take human life. That right is established in the Constitution, and can never be questioned. But we do know, also, that in taking human life the State is very far away from the precepts of educated Christianity.

Says Time Has Come.

The time has come to abolish capital punishment in Massachusetts, and there is no time so fitting for the women of Massachusetts to rise and show how they feel on the subject as now, when one of their own sex is under the sentence of death.

When I say that the time has come for the death penalty to be abolished, the statement would have no weight coming from me alone, except that I and every other thinking person has been taught the truth of what I say by the high ecclesiastical powers who have handed down to us the good of Christian virtues given by Jesus Christ.

Now, with regard to the question of sex in its application to the death penalty. You ask, do I believe that Mrs. Cusumano should be saved because she is a woman? My answer is yes, and no. I believe she should be saved, not because she is a woman and so entitled to extra privileges under the law, but because she is a woman and so has the right to appeal to the instincts of chivalry and tenderness toward motherhood and toward woman generally which were planted deep in the breast of every man from childhood.

If we as individuals are educated in this sense of chivalry and of moral right, do we not have a right to turn to the State for a still higher education? Do we not have a right to expect from the State an example of righteous acts and right doing? I say we have.

I say, therefore, in this connection, God save the State, as He will continue to do in so far as she blesses the "inasmuch of her subjects."

Suffragists Enlist in Cause as Well as Other Organizations.

Spirit Word Tells of Safe Deposit Box

Mother Stirs Club Meeting With Story of Message From Her Dead Son.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The New York Theatre Club was going to discuss "The Return of Peter Grimm" yesterday afternoon at the Astor, but they ended by discussing the return of the dead. The evidence of occult visitations was so dramatic two members fainted.

Mrs. Eudora Mitchell of No. 206 West Eighty-sixth street asked permission to describe a personal experience. She said:

"Last Sunday evening, at a spiritualistic meeting, a woman was put in a trance. She kept repeating this:

"'William, don't crowd all you can have your say. You are uneasy about your father.'

"This woman finally turned to me and told me William, my son, who is dead, asked me to tell my husband that he had had a box in the Broad Exchange Building, which no one knew about, and that in that box would be found three notes signed by three different men whose names he gave through the spiritualistic interpreter.

"I had never heard my son had such a deposit box," she went on. "Neither had his father. But the box was there."

J. C. BURKE, LOWELL ATTORNEY, IS DEAD

CLARK TO WIN, SAYS FRANCIS

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—David R. Francis, former Governor of Missouri, and president of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, is at Pasadena for a rest. But while there he will lose no opportunity to advance the candidacy of Champ Clark for the Democratic nomination for President.

"Champ Clark will be the Democratic candidate," Mr. Francis declares, "and he will be elected President. I am not in a position to judge who the Republican nominee will be, but I am sure it will be a hard fight between the numerous candidates. We will beat their nominee, whoever he may be.

"I must express my gratification at the splendid aid which Mr. Hearst has given to the candidacy of Clark. Mr. Hearst might himself be the nominee for the Democratic convention, but without thought of this he is giving very sincere and effective support to Mr. Clark. His attitude proves him to be a most loyal and unselfish Democrat."

ARRESTS TWO AFTER STRUGGLE ON CAR

After a struggle on the rear platform of a northbound trolley car and again on the platform of the Scollay square subway station, Inspector Michael Burke arrested two men suspected of being pickpockets. At headquarters they gave their names as "Tony" Boyle, thirty-five, of Charlestown, and John Carroll, thirty-two, of Chelsea. They were booked as suspicious persons and held for identification.

STIR AT GRAND TRUNK HEARING

the Canadian Pacific AND NOT THE GRAND TRUNK?

The acting Mayor said it was news to him, whereupon Schoonmaker read a Fruit and Produce resolution of February 2 endorsing the suggestion that the Canadian Pacific may shortly be long, also.

Before the hearing was over there was placed in Schoonmaker's hands a letter from Secretary Alton E. Briggs of the Fruit and Produce Exchange, saying that the exchange "had not receded" from the position taken on January 24:

"Resolved, that the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange indorse the petition of the Grand Trunk Railway for a charter to extend its lines into Massachusetts and the city of Boston, believing that the entrance of the said railway into this territory will prove a great power in adding impetus to the movement to develop the port of Boston and the commercial interests of Massachusetts."

Didn't Tell Public.

Notwithstanding this letter, Senator Schoonmaker took no steps to inform either Mayor Attridge or the public that the Fruit and Produce Exchange "has not receded" from its position indorsing the coming of the Grand Trunk. Secretary Briggs spoke for the project on February 22 before the Railroad Commissioners and the Port Directors, sitting jointly on the question of Boston's need of more railroads.

Senator Powers of South Boston was anxious today to know if President Fitzhugh was going to pay in New England the same rate of wages paid by the New Haven. Mr. Fitzhugh said he thought they'd "have to," that they pay the "going rate" everywhere.

The South Boston Senator wanted to know if New Haven conductors don't get $4.20 and Grand Trunk conductors $3.20 a day.

Fitzhugh said he didn't think so. He said that there had been a rearrangement of Grand Trunk wages in January. He didn't think there ought to be a salary schedule in the Southern New England bill, but wouldn't say definitely until he knew what it would read like, but he was sure his road would pay the "going rate" in New England, and would "have to" pay it.

Committee Revision.

Those who believe with Norman H. White that the public should be allowed to question people appearing on the Grand Trunk proposition point out that even under this "open house," or town meeting, rule, no witnesses before the committee would be compelled to answer any questions except those of committeemen.

There is no doubt that Mr. Fitzhugh would be glad to answer Mr. White's questions. White is friendly to the Grand Trunk's coming. He is also vexed by the apparent attitude of several members of the Railroad Committee, an attitude that will be all too plain to the people of the State before the question is determined.

It is said that the vote to sustain Senator Schoonmaker's "gag" rule shows that the Railroad Committee is divided on the question. It is known that Representative Dean of Wakefield and some others, among them Representative Henry C. Beaman of Princeton, voted to let citizens ask questions.

The vote on this question is believed at the State House to indicate just about the feeling of the Railroad Committee as to the Grand Trunk.

Charles Baxter, ex-Mayor of Medford, who was counsel for the Boston & Eastern Electric Interurban Railroad, recently granted a certificate by the Legislature, appeared for the first time today as one of the counsel for the Grand Trunk. William H. Coolidge, legislative counsel for the New Haven and Boston & Maine, and Woodward Hudson, for the Boston & Albany, occupied front seats at the hearing today, as at previous hearings.

MRS. SHATTUCK ON STAND AGAIN

Mrs. Jennie A. Shattuck, in whose house in Forest Hills the body of Marie A. Bolduc, the Manchester mill girl was found last December, took the witness stand in the second session of the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today as a government witness. She was put on by Assistant District Attorney Lavelle. The case is being heard by Judge Chase and a jury.

Mrs. Shattuck pleaded guilty at the first trial of this case. She testified today that Mrs. Reid said regarding Marie Bolduc: "I treated her. She is all right now. She is only a little weak."

Dr. Ferguson also told her, she said that Marie Bolduc was recovering, that she was through with her trouble, but was too weak to return to Manchester.

Captain Joseph A. Harriman of the Forest Hills Station, who found the body of the girl in Mrs. Shattuck's house, took the witness stand and told the court and jury of the finding of the body and the condition it was in at the time.

ALEXANDRA IS MUCH BETTER

LONDON, March 6.—Dowager Queen Alexandra, who has been seriously ill with influenza, showed improvement today, and her complete recovery is now expected.

Dowager Queen Alexandra was reported ill a year ago. At that time the reports of her health were disquieting, and it was said that doubtless her quarrel with the King and her insistence on retaining the title of Queen had much to do with her breakdown. The Dowager Queen passed much of her time at Sandringham after she was forced to give up Buckingham Palace, which she held for three months despite the efforts of Queen Mary to have her go into retirement.

ROOSEVELT MEN HECKLE CRANE

Some people in Massachusetts are so suspicious that Senator W. Murray Crane did try to interfere with the Presidential Primary bill on Beacon Hill that the Massachusetts Roosevelt Committee sent another telegram to the junior Senator today, putting the question right up to the Senatorial jaw-bone, as it were.

The M. R. C. wired Senator Crane yesterday a hot tip not to dictate to the Legislature in this matter.

Senator Crane fired back seventy-eight words by wire. He asserted his belief that no one has been able to dictate to said Legislature. He declared he never attempted to dictate to it. He promised that he didn't propose, directly or indirectly, to try to influence Beacon Hill legislators on the Presidential Primary bill or any other legislation.

TAFT ATTACKED BY ROOSEVELT

MINEOLA, N. Y., March 6.—Fighting mad at aspersions cast upon his candidacy for the presidential nomination by Secretary Stimson in his Chicago speech, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt issued a long statement here this afternoon bitterly assailing the supporters of President Taft, and Mr. Stimson in particular.

Colonel Roosevelt put his candidacy up to the people, saying that he is not prompted by ambition, but to serve his country.

The former President attacked, in particular, the methods of promoting the Taft campaign, saying that the will of the people was being circumvented through the patronage club.

Replying to those of his critics who declare that his campaign may wreck the Republican party, the Colonel warned his political enemies that they and not himself were bringing ruin upon the organization. While Colonel Roosevelt did not mention President Taft by name, he made his remarks plainer than any other of his recent campaign declarations. The statement follows:

Colonel Roosevelt's Statement.

As regards Mr. Stimson's statement that against my original intention I am being forced by certain persons into the arena this year, I may merely say that the statement is correct only in the sense that it would be correct to make the same statement as to my advocacy of Mr. Stimson for Governor in 1910. In that contest, into which I was exceedingly reluctant to be drawn and in which I entered only from a sense of duty to the people as a whole, I was assailed with virtually the same arguments by the great majority of those who are now assailing me.

If I had consulted only my personal interest and personal preferences, I should have kept out of the 1910 campaign and let the machine remain in control at Saratoga and have seen the State go Democratic by 300,000 majority, as under those circumstances it certainly would have gone.

I went in because I conscientiously thought it was my duty to take my part in the fight for honest government, for genuine self-government by the people, without regard to the consequences to myself, and I am in this fight on exactly the same basis and for precisely the same reason.

Let me add in view of the question of certain friends that neither Mr. Stimson nor any other man whom I have supported for public office owes me gratitude for doing so. I support a man not to get his gratitude, but because I believe he will render good service to the people, and I ask nothing from any man in return except that he render such service to the people, and I judge him accordingly.

The Demand for Primaries.

An answer to the question concerning who are forcing me into the arena is easy. Which side is making the demand for primaries? And which side is stifling this demand whenever possible, refusing to concede to it save under compulsion and trusting to the use of patronage and to such methods as those tried in the recent Kansas City congressional convention and to those very machine leaders who have turned a complete somersault as regards the President during the past four years?

These leaders are managing the campaign against me, and if they were deliberately trying to wreck the Republican party they would follow precisely the same tactics that they have been following, tactics which made it seem that they would rather see the Republican party defeated than see it restored to what it was under Lincoln, and see it become again the genuine party of the people which stands for real popular rule and for the highest ideal of social and industrial justice, to be achieved through popular rule.

"Let the People Say."

We stand for direct presidential primaries, everywhere, in Massachusetts, and in New York (for in New York the primary law passed by the machines of two parties is expressly designed to prevent either party from escaping the control of professional politicians and from falling under the control of the people.)

CARUSO'S NIGHT AT THE OPERA

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

About three thousand people saw Caruso last night. There would have been more only they couldn't get in. There is considerable satisfaction in seeing Caruso because there is so much of him to see. He is unquestionably the largest Johnson who has yet sung in "The Girl of the Golden West" in Boston.

It was a big night and no mistake. From the time the famous tenor stalked into the Polka saloon and slammed his saddle upon a table, until he disappeared in the forest with Carmen Melis and his last high tone was choked by the descending curtain, the audience was in ecstacy; that part of it which revels in expensive notes.

There were other people in the cast but they were like shadows, it was Caruso's night.

Voice Not the Same

And how about Caruso? He was sick for much of last season and it was reported that he had lost his voice. He returned to the Metropolitan this year and the critics announced with more or less unanimity that he had found it again.

Has he?

He certainly possesses a big voice, but just as certainly it is not the voice which won him fame, which made him the greatest tenor in the world. The most you can say about him today is that he sings finely in large, broad tones. It is not a brilliant voice like that of Constantino, nor a thrilling, ringing voice like that of Zenatello.

It is dull, baritone in all, but its top which is wide and soft and pleasant to hear. It no longer awakens excitement among those who discriminate.

Caruso is still a splendid singer, and nowhere in the world today is there such a big voice that is as good in quality.

The Metropolitan does well to hold him and Boston would like to get him. In Aida he is unquestionably magnificent. He has been singing the Duke in Rigoletto recently, but I would not like to hear him such a part.

Actor and Singer, Too.

The plain truth is that he has lost his exquisite tenor voice and received in its place a very fine high baritone.

As an actor he shows the result of the personal attention he received from David Belasco. His Johnson is a more logical character than that of either Zenatello or Constantino.

This was especially noticeable in the first act, when he made it plain that he came as a bandit and not as a lover. It was not until he clasped hands with Minnie over the keg containing the bar receipts that love conquered with Caruso.

The performance went finely under the spirited leadership of Moranzoni. Carmen Melis had one of her good nights and was furiously tragic in the great scene of the second act. She sang with a good quality and the usual large quantity of tone.

Polese sang beautifully and acted conventionally as Jack Rance. Blanchart, Lankow, Leveroni and Tavecchia were excellent in their places and the male chorus was thoroughly dependable.

Mrs. Gallatin to Wed Again

Fiance a Friend of Taft

MRS. GALLATIN, WHO DIVORCED NEW YORKER

Mrs. Gallatin got her final decree last Summer after a secret hearing.

Daughter of "Al" Adams to Be Bride of Larz Anderson's Cousin.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Mrs. Ida Adams Gallatin, daughter of the late "Al" Adams, once New York's "Policy King," is about to venture in matrimony again, it is announced.

She will become the bride of Francis Baldwin Anderson, scion of a wealthy Cincinnati family, who are friends of the Tafts.

Mr. Anderson, a cousin of Larz Anderson, American Minister at Brussels, was divorced recently. His wife alleged that he contracted bills which she paid, that he was intemperate and that he "remained away from home twice a month."

Mrs. Gallatin divorced John Nicholson Gallatin, better known about town as "Jack" Gallatin. He is a son of James Nicholas Gallatin, formerly president of the New York Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and a descendant of a former Secretary of the Treasury, the founder of the Gallatin National Bank of New York.

The legal procedure in Mrs. Gallatin's divorce suit was rather secret. Justice Morschauser of Westchester county granted the final decree August 18 last.

Mrs. Gallatin, a very pretty woman, previously instituted a suit for separation. To her accusations then Gallatin put in a very tart answer which he withdrew. There were reports that they had "kissed and made up," but the young woman carried on her suit and Supreme Court Justice Drayton granted her a separation in March, 1910.

LABOR UNIONS WILL FIGHT FOR TEACHERS

The educational committee of the Boston Central Labor Union will take up the cause of the teachers in their fight for pensions before a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature. This action is taken because of the ruling of the School Board that Boston school teachers could not appear in their own behalf before the Legislature. The committee, headed by Dennis D. Driscoll, will oppose the measure introduced by a member of the School Board regarding the Teachers' Pension bill. The opposition will be conducted along the lines expressed by teachers.

POLICE PROBING FIRE AT QUINCY

The Quincy police investigated today a fire in the lodging house at No. 661 Quincy Point, in which three men were burned to death, a fourth was made delirious and a fifth was rescued and then was arrested on a charge of intoxication.

The arrested man, John Kelley, was arraigned in Quincy District Court today. At the fire he resisted efforts to carry him out of the building. Finally H. T. Thorne, the biggest policeman on the force, lugged him out bodily. Then Kelley was locked up.

The men burned to death were: Donald Leary, thirty-five years, a riveter for the Fore River Shipbuilding Company; Daniel Graham, thirty-five, unemployed, and Patrick McDonald, carpenter.

Charles McDonald, a lodger, was saved by Alexander Proverb, the landlord. McDonald is now in the Quincy City Hospital. Patrick McDonald, one of the dead, was his brother. Charles McDonald was burned. The pain, combined with the shock of his brother's death, affected his mind so that he was put under constant watch.

The building is the old Lemuel Baxter mansion, one of the Quincy landmarks. It is run as a lodging house by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Proverb. The boarders are usually employes at the Fore River ship yards nearby.

At 9:30 p. m. John Ryan, lodger on the second floor, came down stairs, giving an alarm. There was fire in an attic room, occupied by the two McDonalds, Leary and Graham. Landlord Proverb opened the attic room door and was driven back by smoke and fire. He fought his way back and managed to bring out Charles McDonald, whose hair and clothing were ignited. He heard groans from the room, but could not save the other three. By the time other boarders were roused the attic was a furnace.

Firemen held the damage to $3,000. In the ruins of the attic they found Patrick McDonald, Leary and Graham clasped in one another's arms, as though seeking mutual aid. The men in the attic had liquor, but there was no sound of quarreling. It is thought by the police that one of them accidentally overturned a lamp.

MISS SEARS FOR WOMEN'S RIGHTS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 6.—Eleonora Sears, the Boston bachelor girl, told an AMERICAN interviewer today that conventionality is more or less of a humbug. It was responsible, she said, for women running second in the world when they ought to lead the procession. Miss Sears is visiting at Coronado, and has not abated one whit her very liberal ideas as to exercise or dress. Only last Sunday she took a twenty-mile walk, clad in the [illegible] boots and a rough-weather costume.

"The world is just beginning to realize," said Miss Sears, "that its progress has been greatly retarded because of the so-called conventionalities which hold down and limit the activity of women. There is nothing women cannot do as well as man and many things she can do better and more effectively.

Woman Governor Soon.

"In California, thanks to the broad, progressive ideas of its people, the women have been recently enfranchised and henceforth will be on an equal plane with men politically. Eventually they will control the State government and in my opinion the day is not far distant when a woman will occupy the Governor's chair in the State Capitol and a Legislature, the majority of members of which will be women, will draft and pass on laws for the betterment of all."

Do you believe that some day the United States will have a woman President?" was asked.

Will Base Laws on Love.

"That is probable," she replied, "but that time is farther off. But when it does come, our nation's laws will be construed on the fundamental basis of love, and the hard times and high cost of living, about which you read so much now, will be forgotten.

"However, politics is only a branch of endeavor," continued Miss Sears.

"As I have said before woman can do many things better and more effectively than man. But they are confined by conventionalities.

"For instance, why should men be allowed to say that it is improper for a woman to chew gum and not put the same rule in effect for men? I think that of all things, a man chewing gum presents just the same appearance as a woman. The practice is to be condemned for appearance sake if for anything, but certainly not because it is morally wrong.

"Every time I see either a man or a woman engaged in masticating an indestructible wad of gum it reminds me of a dairy farm, only the cows put their chewing to better use than their biped masters.

Will Shake Off Shackles.

"There should be no dividing line in the code of morals between men and women. Why should a woman be shut in by a lot of conventionalities which improve neither her health nor her morals?

"Some day women will shake off the shackles fashion forced upon them and it will be a great day for women. Nature never intended that we should caparison in steel-ribbed vises and go through life suffering torture. When we learn to dress as comfortable as our Oriental sisters the health and happiness of the nation will have greatly improved."

VERMONT CAPITAL VOTES NO-LICENSE

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 6.—Montpelier, the capital city of the State, returned to the "dry" column in the annual election. The city had been in the "wet" column only one year. Six towns, including Colchester, also swung into the "dry" column. As a result there will be but twenty-two of the 246 cities and towns in the State where the open saloon is legalized during the coming year.

SPRINGFIELD HEARS NAGEL MARCH 13

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Secretary Nagel, who has been selected to speak at various places for President Taft in the pre-convention campaign, will deliver a political address in Springfield, Mass., March 13, and in Providence March 14.

TOWNS DO NOT WANT BOSTON

City solicitors and selectmen from two cities and nine towns appeared today before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House and declared with great emphasis that they did not want to become a part of Boston, as Governor Foss proposed in his recent inaugural and for which two bills before the Legislature provide.

These men said in effect that they didn't want anything to do with Boston and they wanted Boston to let them alone.

These are the cities and towns represented at the hearing: Lynn, Newton, Arlington, Wellesley, Canton, Milton, Hingham, Weymouth, Winthrop, Hull and Weston.

The two bills under consideration were those of Senator Harry N. Stearns of Cambridge and Daniel J. Kiley of Boston. The first bill provides for a federation of the towns and cities of metropolitan Boston, and the latter for the annexation of all the towns and cities within a radius of ten miles from Boston.

Kiley Defends Bill.

Daniel J. Kiley appeared in favor of his bill, which provides for the annexation of all towns and cities within a ten-mile radius of the city of Boston, and that these cities and towns should be annexed if five-eighths of the registered voters cast ballots in favor of the annexation.

Senator George H. Tinkham offered a bill providing that a metropolitan police force and fire district should be established. This district would include all the cities and towns close to Boston, but no specified radius was established. In the bill it was suggested that the Governor should appoint three persons to act in co-operation with the police and fire commissioners of Boston and act as a commission to investigate its establishment.

Carl P. Chainey, chief of the Revere police, favored the bill and said that the town of Revere with its police department of twenty-one men was not able to take the proper care of the crowds of people who go to Revere Beach in the summer season.

Friction in Revere.

He stated that there were many violations of the law at the beach, but the police force was so small, that the offenders often escaped before they were detected. He claimed that the Metropolitan and Revere police did not work in harmony with each other and that two-thirds of the arrests in Revere, during the past ten years, were of people living in the Metropolitan district. He said that the establishment of this district police department would mean that all violations of the law at Revere Beach would be wiped out.

Former Representative Samuel A. Segee of Revere and Chief Burquhardt of the Arlington police, also favored the proposed establishment.

MRS. MURPHY KEEPS HER 82D BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Timothy Murphy of Cobden street, Roxbury, celebrated her eighty-second birthday last night. She is the wife of Captain Murphy and the mother of Mrs. Joseph E. Doherty. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. A. Fitzgerald, the latter a niece.

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE

There are simple home treatments that keep the hair and complexion young looking. Dry shampooing cleans the scalp and hair, and makes the hair grow. Just put a cupful of cornmeal in a fruit jar and mix it with an original package of therox; sprinkle a little on the head and brush out. It brushes out easily and leaves the hair clean, bright, wavy and rich in color.

To keep the face youthful and fair, make a simple lotion by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel and rub over the face, neck and arms every morning. Your complexion will soon be smooth, clear, satin-like and free from blemishes.

Wild hairs or fuzzy growths can be made to vanish quickly by applying delatone paste. Mix enough powdered delatone with water to cover the hairy surface; apply and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone.

Chaps, cold sores, pimples, eczema and skin eruptions disappear if you rub Mother's Salve into the affected surfaces before retiring. It quickly heals sores, cuts, burns, scalds, etc. It is antiseptic as well as healing and lessens danger of blood poisoning.

COURTED FOR 12 YEARS, SAYS GIRL

Alleging that she was courted for twelve years, Flora M. Roberts of Haverhill has filed answers to interrogatories put to her in connection with her $50,000 breach of promise suit against John A. Newcomb of Haverhill. She declares that Newcomb courted her with calls, presents, theatres and trips for a dozen years.

In her original bill Miss Roberts claimed that she and Newcomb had mutually agreed to marry, but that he finally refused, although she was always ready to carry out her part of the agreement. Charles H. Newcomb asked that he be appointed conservator of John A. Newcomb so that he might appear on behalf of the defendant, on the ground that the latter was of unsound mind, not able to enter into a marriage agreement or defend the action against him.

TWO SURVIVORS OF ERNE WRECK REACH BOSTON

Samuel J. Mack and Andrew Alend, two survivors of the ship Erne, which was wrecked while bound from Boston to Buenos Ayres a month ago, resulting in the loss of the lives of Captain T. A. Fickett and his wife, and others, reached Boston today and told for the first time their stories of the wreck. Mack said:

"The last seen of Captain Fickett, his wife and Robert E. Hay, a passenger, they were going toward the cabin, and I think they must have been drowned there."

While Captain Fickett is not openly accused of cowardice, both Mack and Alend intimated strongly that the skipper and his assistant, Second Mate Cushing, planned to desert the ship without the knowledge of the rest of the crew, who were marooned in the forward part of the fast dissolving hulk.

Bitter Against Captain.

Particularly bitter are the two hardened seafarers at the treatment accorded the cabin boy, Russell W. Walker of Medford, who, through a member of the captain's band, safe in the afterpart of the ship, was left to drown when the ship's master and his wife, second mate and passenger attempted to save their own lives by taking to an open boat when the ship, with its crew, was in such a condition that it seemed likely to go to the bottom.

As to other charges that have been made against Captain Fickett relative to his conduct during the hours before the storm and during the terrible period in which the stalwart vessel broke in pieces, neither Mack nor Alend would consent to talk.

Mutiny, said both men today, was farthest in the minds of any of the crew. The blow, which assumed the proportions of a hurricane without warning, was not entirely unexpected, either, according to the two survivors.

Captain Fickett, expert sailor though he was, had been forewarned of an impending storm long before it broke, had taken the precaution to shorten sail and had even hove to for a time. But he believed that it would be possible to run before the gale under shortened canvas, and this, it is declared, led to the wreck of the Erne and the loss of the lives of eight persons.

"I Made a Mistake."

Had the captain adhered to his first impulse and followed his judgment in heaving the ship to, Seaman Mack is convinced that not only would the ship have been saved, but the lives of those who went to a watery grave would have been spared.

"Mack, I made a big mistake, but I did it for the best!"

That is a statement Mack says that Captain Fiskett made to him when he found that the high metal masts were as pipestems in the teeth of the hurricane and that his vessel was doomed. Seaman Mack explained the statement by saying that Captain Fiskett had made one last futile effort to get up sail and bring his ship into the wind, and when he found that the attempt was hopeless, the master confided that he believed that by sending his ship scudding before the wind he would make a record trip to Buenos Ayres, the destination of the lumber-laden craft.

In confirmation of the theory that is shared by every one of the nine survivors of the wreck, that when it was obvious that the ship would surely break up, Captain Fickett and Mate Cushing cut away the only remaining boat, and after placing in it Mrs. Fickett, already worn out and bruised and exhausted, and Hay, the Portland undertaker, preferred risking their lives in the tempestuous seas to remaining on the sinking ship, is the story of the cabin boy, young Walker of Medford.

This lad, found two days after the skipper and his party had disappeared, told the seven members of the crew who were still alive, that when the mainmast snapped off near the deck and fell overboard, carrying stays and rigging away, Captain Fickett ordered him to get together the charts, telescope and small boat's compass.

He saw the captain an hour later for the last time, and although he did not witness the departure of the four, he was of the opinion that they attempted to get away from the Erne in the boat.

Young Walker was left isolated, wet and exhausted in the chart room, at the very stern of the vessel, with the other men all struggling for their lives in the forward part of the ship.

"Survival of the Fittest."

It was a harrowing, uncanny tale of hardship that Mack and Alend told. They told of the suddenness with which the awful calamity happened and the subsequent night that each of the survivors put up to save his own life. It was literally a survival of the fittest, and no man risked his own life in an attempt to save his fellows.

They related the terrible torture and hardships endured in the bitter, freezing cold, with the spray freezing to their already ice-coated garments as it was dashed upon them as they sought refuge from the menacing water, which each moment drove them higher and higher into the rigging of the only remaining mast.

Half of the crew, forced to desperation as the bow of the ship steadily sank, clutched the bowsprit of the diving vessel and some of them remained there until through sheer exhaustion they were washed away and drowned, one after another, until the remaining few, maddened with the experience, heeded their companions' impassioned appeals and risked their lives in one mad, quick dash through the torrental seas that raked the ship from stem to stern, and finally secured a foothold in the rigging, safe, for the time being, from the relentless seas.

These two bronzed followers of the sea refrain from making any specific charges against the captain of the derelict ship; their only comment is that if he had bided his time and remained with the ship as they had, he and his friends would undoubtedly have lived to return, as did they themselves, two days and a month from the date of the hurricane's onslaught.

Praise the Mate.

And nothing but sympathy and pity do these lucky sailors feel for the more unfortunate, who were swept to their death. More particularly is their pity extended to the woman of the ship, Mrs. Fickett, whom they declared was beloved and respected by every man aboard ship.

For the poor fellows of their own ilk, who succumbed to the ordeal after manfully fighting for their lives against the uneven odds, these men expressed a reverence that was pathetic, and for First Mate James L. Elliott of Liverpool, whom they both described as "a gentleman and a faithful and obedient subordinate," they spoke only in glowing terms.

The insinuations that Mate Elliott was an enemy of Captain Fickett and that he would not hesitate to make things unpleasant for his superior were refuted in the whole-souled and emphatic language of the mariner.

Mack, who, when in Boston, makes his home at 23 Charter street, North End, signed with the British consul in Boston, on Friday, January 26, for a trip to Buenos Ayres, with Captain Fickett of Erne. Andrew Alend lives at 40 Clark street, North End, when in port, also signed on that date. Neither had previously sailed under Captain Fickett, though Mack had known the Maine skipper for about fifteen years, during which time he had frequently met him in the River Platte.

Mack was on the port watch, with First Mate Elliott. He said that the Erne weighed anchor from her moorings at the East Boston flats at 9 a. m. on February 1. The wind was fair and from the northwest. The wind held pretty steadily in that direction until Sunday, when the ship was approaching the Banks of Newfoundland, but between 8 p. m. and midnight of that night, February 4, it began to die out, and there were ominous signs of an approaching storm.

About 11 that night all hands were called on deck to take off sail, "and we shortened her down to three lower topsails." The glass began to fall about midnight and the wind to haul ahead, making it on the starboard side, and Captain Fickett ordered him to put the wheel down and keep it down, while the vessel was hove to.

At 1 a. m. on Monday, February 5, the captain ordered Mack to put the wheel up and keep the Erne on a southeast course. Mack was relieved at the wheel by Alend a few moments after 1.

Alend's Story.

Then came Alend's narration. He said that at 2 o'clock the wind began to work aft, and the indications were that a severe storm was about to break. Vivid streaks of lightning illuminated the heavens and the bolts played about the ship with its steel and metal masts in a menacing manner. Rain and hail fell in a deluge and for a period of fifteen minutes it was almost an impossibility to walk the decks. So dangerous and threatening were the conditions that Second Mate Cushing issued orders to have the yards squared. Only the three lower topsails and the spanker were set at the time. Then, almost without a moment's warning, there came an unusually heavy squall, blowing from the northwest, and it was a difficult task to maintain one's equilibrium. Mate Cushing dispatched Alend to call Captain Fickett, and when the seaman went below to call the master he found him asleep in a chair, fully clothed, including his great coat, as if he had expected such a summons. That was between 2 and 3 a. m., probably nearer 3. Captain Fickett roused himself, and as soon as he reached the deck he let go the spanker and brailed in the spanker.

Captain Fickett called the port watch out to assist the starboard watch to square the four yards. The entire crew remained on deck until long after 4 o'clock, for the seas were running so high and the wind blowing so hard that every one was fearful of the ship's staunchness even though she had proven her seaworthiness many times. So mountainous were the seas and so powerful the wind that it required the combined strength of Barney Olson and Magnus Lind to man the wheel and keep the ship's head before the wind.

The Erne was rolling and tossing about like a cockle-shell. She was shipping water over both rails, and as she rolled and careened some of the upper sails got adrift and the entire crew went aloft to secure them. Both watches finally secured the mainroyal, main topgallant sail and the three upper topsails.

That was about 4:30, but the wind was playing such havoc that Captain Fickett again ordered the men up again half an hour later to put rovings in the three lower topsails, to make doubly sure.

The sails would not blow off the yards. Mack and another seaman later were sent aloft to rack off the fore braces in the event of the plarall carrying away. They were unable to accomplish the task, however, as the ship would bury her rail when she rolled and the men were unable to work with any degree of safety.

Rigging Carried Away.

At 8 o'clock in the morning Alend again took the wheel and remained at that post until about 10:55. During that time the Erne was blowing along, rolling and tossing and pitching, and First Mate Elliott and Thomas S. Dickie of Arlington, the ship's carpenter, continued to pour paint oil overboard for the purpose of calming the sea.

The ship was running, scudding, racing pell-mell before the wind which was of hurricane velocity and the aspect of the water was terrifying. Instead of the ordinarily green or blackish appearance, the surface of the ocean had been whipped into a seething foam.

Great seas bore down upon the already trembling craft and she was pitched and tossed hither and thither, sometimes submerged and again riding the top of the billows.

The men, working with feverish haste, risked life and limb on the slippery deck, and each one expected that moment to be his last, as the waves washed over the deckload of lumber, despite the pouring of the oil. A barrel of oil had been used between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Alend then took his turn at the wheel, and was relieved by Dick Fishwick, an English seaman, going forward to rack the forebraces. He had hardly completed the task when the crossjack brace carried away on the mizzenmast. He scurried up the rigging to the dangling and dangerous crossjack yard and attempted to get the pennant in.

Dickie and Selin offered what assistance they could, but neither were of much help, as they were unable to withstand the terrific blow and maintain their positions. However, the job was just about completed when the vessel was broached up in the wind.

Captain Fickett and Mate Cushing were standing on the deck and Alend had reached the rigging when a sea, more heavy and more forceful than all the rest, struck the deck load of lumber amidships and carried away to the top layer, which caused the main rigging, forebraces, mainbraces and the bulwarks, from the poop to the fore-rigging to carry away. That was shortly after noon on that eventful day.

Everything on deck was now adrift and the Erne was wholly unmanageable. Absolutely nothing could be done with her, she was a helpless hulk in the trough of the sea, and Fishwick and Silen, who were both on duty at the wheel, were ordered by Captain Fickett to put the wheel down. The seas broke over her unceasingly, and as the lumber on the deck was washed away as cleanly as though it had been swept by a scrupulous housewife, there was a great open space between the foremast and the mizzenmast through which the seas rushed with torrential force. It was now impossible, almost, for anyone to go forward or vice versa.

When this condition of affairs developed Captain Fickett and the second mate, Cushing, were standing on the weather side, with Fishwick, Walker, the cabin boy, and the two Swedes or Finns. Mrs. Fickett was in the cabin aft, where she had been advised to stay by her husband, when it first became apparent that a storm of unusual proportions was brewing. She had dutifully obeyed the command, and had not ventured on the deck up to this point.

When the sea carried away the deckload, Alend and Polin were in the rigging of the mizzenmast, but they came down and Alend helped give those aft a hand in putting the wheel down. By this time it was Mack's turn to take the wheel, but he, with Lind, Olsen, Franklin and Orteson and Mate Elliott, who constituted the port watch, was forward under the forecastle head, and it was a physical impossibility for him to reach the stern unless at a stupendous risk to his life.

Woman's Fight Rouses City Petitions Court For Work

MRS. MILDRED EVANS ASKS COURT FOR WORK

MILDRED EVANS.

Young widow claims Lynn Board of Health is to blame for her not being able to secure work in the city.

All Lynn is aroused today over the charges brought against the Lynn Board of Health by Mrs. Mildred Evans, of No. 745 Weston avenue, to the effect that it has caused her discharge from several places of employment.

Mrs. Evans, a young widow, has petitioned the Essex County Superior Court for an injunction restraining the Lynn Board of Health from preventing her retaining employment. She says also that she was forced to steal away from the North Reading Sanitarium on account of bad conditions there. Today she declared she would contest the case to the end.

Mrs. Evans, who is twenty-four years old, was forced to seek employment when her husband died two years ago, and she claims that though she is capable and able to get work, she is not allowed to do so by the action of the inspectors of health of Lynn, who, she claims, have been the means of her losing several positions. The State Board promised Mrs. Evans it would investigate her charges.

Mrs. Evans is acting under advice of her counsel, Timothy O'Leary of Lynn. She says she is practically without funds; that she must either get work or die. She claims the Lynn Board of Health has caused her discharge from work on the ground she is a victim of tuberculosis. Mrs. Evans claims she has a certificate from the Massachusetts General Hospital to the effect that all she suffered from was a severe cold and bronchial trouble.

Here are some of the charges made by Mrs. Evans against the North Reading Sanitarium:

Patients do not get substantial food.

No patient ever gets an egg.

In the morning hard bacon is served, with little coffee and a few fried potatoes.

For dinner, boiled meat, fried over, and so tough it could hardly be chewed, was served.

Patients did not get sufficient covering for their beds. I yelled and cried for blankets many a night, but never got one. Mornings I would wake up stiff cold, and had to be rubbed down by the nurses," Mrs. Evans says.

If you felt faint, they would never give you anything to eat.

TELLS PUPILS OF INSURANCE

Moving picture shows, amusement parks, trolley lines and athletics all demand money, and the average boy and girl fails to get the habit of thrift during the high school age. This point was emphasized by Harry W. Kimball, field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, in a talk to the boys of the High School of Commerce today. Mr. Kimball's subject was "Thrift," with the object of promoting savings bank insurance. He said in part:

"Nearly one half the scholars in our high schools carry life insurance policies, and strangely enough almost in every instance more of the girls are insured than boys. In most instances these policies are carried in industrial companies, and therefore at an excessively high cost.

"Life insurance in reality is not the insurance of life, but rather protection of the value there is in the life of the person insured. Boys and girls in our high schools are worth something. Time, money and thought have been put into making them what they are. Parents, city and State have made investments in them.

"These facts show the large field of usefulness that there is for savings bank life insurance in the high schools of the State, and, when agencies for this form of insurance shall have been established in these schools, not only will an opportunity be afforded for the scholars to obtain insurance more cheaply than at present, but the agency itself will afford an excellent medium through which the pupils may be taught the essential principles of insurance."

Big Feet Are Praised By Woman Physician

Big Intellects or Amiable Temperament Do Not Go With Small Feet, She Says.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Dr. Helen R. Kellogg told the Klio Association today some things about big feet. She has that kind herself, and said she spoke with authority. Bits of advice and philosophy that marked her talk were the following:

"I am happy to know that Chicago women have the reputation of having big feet. We must live up to it and cultivate the growth of our feet.

"Everybody ought to wear sandals in the house; children should go barefoot as much as possible—it makes the feet grow. Never wear the same pair of shoes two days in succession. It retards the growth of the feet.

"Big feet are an indication of an amiable temperament.

"Big intellects do not go with small feet. Cultivate large feet; the intellect will grow automatically.

"When men and women reach forty it is common for them to grow fleshy. How much better, how much more comfortable, if they have big feet to carry the added weight."

ITALIAN DIRIGIBLE IS A SUCCESS IN FIELD

TRIPOLI, March 6.—The dirigible airship today proved its usefulness in war when a reconnoitring party of Italian army officers made a flight to ascertain the position of Turks and Arabs beyond the city. The balloon proved more satisfactory than aeroplanes, which require constant attention.

Labor Conditions Better in Boston

More Positions Being Filled by the State Employment Bureau.

Labor conditions are decidedly better in Boston than a corresponding time last year, according to the supply and demand for help indications at the State Free Employment Bureau. With 116 daily applications for work last month, as opposed to 126 in February, 1911, the number of positions filled each day averaged 42, while the average was only 36 a day during the same period last year.

BATTLESHIP IS JUST SAVED FROM SINKING

NEW YORK, March 6.—The battleship New Hampshire, it has just been learned, narrowly escaped sinking in the Whitney basin at the Brooklyn Navy Yard when about to be towed out of drydock. When the big dock was flooded three tugs made fast to the battleship and started to pull her out when a bluejacket discovered a sea valve had been broken and water was pouring into the vessel in great volume. She was replaced in the dock and the water pumped out.

TAFT LEADS VOTING IN STRAW BALLOT

SPRINGFIELD, March 6.—A straw ballot of the presidential nominees taken at a banquet of the Springfield Publicity Club gave Taft fifty-seven votes, Roosevelt fifteen and Wilson six. Henry John Lewis of Boston, editor of Graphic Arts; Robert L. Raynor, president of the Quadri-color Company of New York, and the Rev. Niel McPherson of the First Church of Springfield spoke. The master printers of Springfield were guests.

WOMEN SEIZE COAL BY FORCE

LONDON, March 6.—The government was prepared today to take its most radical step toward the settlement of the coal strike, the introduction of a bill establishing a minimum wage in the coal fields. Premier Asquith had served notice such a bill would be introduced, and there was every prospect it would be enacted without delay.

The paralysis of industry and traffic throughout England, Wales and Scotland is increasing. It was estimated today close to 2,000,000 persons were idle. Thousands of railway workers are being laid off.

Suffering has become acute among the poor, and at Sunderland women led a mob which raided the coal depots. The watchman was overpowered and the members of the mob carried off a big supply of fuel.

An important conference believed to relate to the introduction of the minimum wage bill was held today between members of the miners' executive committee and Ramsay McDonald, leader of the Laborites, in the House of Commons. There were other negotiations with the industrial council.

WASHINGTON IN GRIP OF A SNOWSTORM

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Washington is in the grip of a snowstorm which at 10 a. m. had lasted for several hours and showed no signs of letup. With a rising temperature, the storm began shortly after midnight. The temperature was 40 degrees above zero.

GIVES SOCIETY TIPS TO "PROVINCIAL" BOSTON

Is Boston to be classed with "the provincial cities which have ultra-fashionable representation?"

Boston society leaders throw up their hands at the suggestion and say "No."

But C. W. DeLyon Nicholls, the author of that trenchant new book, the "469 Ultra-Fashionables in America," says "Yes." And the author has been even harder than that on Boston, for by his own process of elimination he compresses Boston ultra-fashionable society down to twenty-eight persons, omitting all mention of Mrs. Jack Gardner in his volume.

Author Nicholls not only calls Boston "provincial," but he says this city's social climber tries to get ahead "by affiliating with those denizens of the city who have good social standing at Newport."

The AMERICAN today presents the second instalment from the advance sheets of Author Nicholls' new volume.

The title of the opening chapter of the book is "How to Become Ultra-Fashionable." In it the author uses a scalpel in laying bare the foibles and follies of "social aspirants." Referring to the Newport Sunday morning dances, the author writes:

Clergy Vanishing from List.

"What with Saturday night dances ending at 3 o'clock in the morning of the Lord's day, the breach away from the church is deepening and widening every day. The clergy have almost disappeared from fashion's invitation lists and are being remanded by its votaries to their rightful spiritual province—the functions of baptizing, burying and marrying them, provided the latter ceremony does not for statutory reasons have to be performed by a civil magistrate."

"Do not," the author goes on, "I beg of you, turn yourself and family into a national one-night stand theatre comique by making the grand tour of hiring cottages at Newport, Lenox and the other modish resorts before society has given the slightest recognition to your claims to be passed upon."

The author advises the social would-bes to "give a wide berth to Lenox, for it is a mincing, conservative and somewhat provincial colony, more or less dominated by Boston ideas. There is a goodly list of families moving in general society at Lenox not particularly significant for wealth, patrician lineage or natural style, who would pass a tediously dull season were they to attempt Newport.

Newport the Social Acme.

"It is Newport which is to be the acme of your social endeavors in America. Edith Wharton made a grave mistake when she sold Land's End at Newport and built the Mount at Lenox."

The second instalment follows:

"When one pauses to reflect upon the vast fund of energy, time and money annually expended in New York city by social aspirants in entertaining the wrong people—people who are positive dragons besetting the path of social progress, these foregoing monitions cannot be too often reiterated.

"Form the acquaintance of an occasional visiting nobleman, if fully assured he is not an impostor, and stand well at his consulate and is likely to be received by families who might, perhaps, be made to fall in line, for furthering your campaign. Minister well to his gastronomic needs, for more than likely he has taken lodgings sans meals. But avoid making yourself unduly conspicuous in public print with such people of title, for should any one of them turn out to be a scapegrace, the satirical periodicals will show you up as a nobody caught in the flagrante delictu of snobbishness and hanging on by the eyebrows.

"If, on the other hand, a titled European is comfortably wealthy and persona grata at houses of the highest fashion, secure the honor of his presence, if only for a single night, as a guest for your opera box, no matter if he passes the greater part of the evening calling on friends outside in the 'golden horseshoe,' not being seen once in your loge between acts when the lights are turned on. Of course your social mentor has explained to you that there is no greater social reinforcement than the possession of a box at the opera. But be not over-sanguine, and do not waste over much time and effort over this highly accredited nobleman unless you have on the tapis a marriageable daughter with an ample dot, for in all probability he will flout you as soon as he has ascertained your exact social status.

"Keep Up a Bold Front."

"The snubs, cuffs and slings of outrageous fortune you are experiencing on every hand may be perverting you into a woman hater and a cynic, when your youth and beauty are at their zenith; but keep up a bold front, steering clear of flamboyant toilettes, for a woman needs to be astonishingly well placed socially to dress like a cocotte. To lay aside all persiflage, many a social aspirant has handicapped herself by being habitually overdressed. To draw from life: A pretty and in some ways tactful postulant for social entree attended one Lenten morning a sewing guild of the great metropolitan Cathedral of St. John the Divine. In the presence of a bevy of social leaders dressed in simple, sober tones, as befitted the season of penitence in a religious house, Mrs. Would-Be flounced in lavishly bejeweled and attired in an elaborate tailored costume of white broadcloth! The efforts of the influential social sponsor who accompanied Mrs. Would-Be were of course rendered of no avail, for upon their crossing the threshold of the guildroom a painfully suppressed smile went round as if by electric unison.

"And above all, be philanthropic with your purse, although, perhaps, the heart responds but feebly. But let one of the special forms of your altruism be giving social functions, a goodly quota of the guests, until you are well placed, consisting of old Colonial and Knickerbocker families, who may never be able to return your hospitality in kind, but each of whom may know a few ultra-fashionables. Anent of philanthropy, conditions have changed a great deal since William D. Howells wrote his "Travels in Altruria," and fashionable charities as an adjuvant to social climbing, are growing more difficult to be worked, and the church still more intractable to be hoodwinked for these ends. The last generation's perversion of a church into a social club, by means of which to effect an entrance into society, is wholly alien to twentieth century metropolitan trend of events. The newly rich are no longer marrying their daughters to clergymen, for supposed social position—in fact, the church and fashion are constantly drifting wider apart, much to the spiritual purification of the former.

"Break Away From Church."

"A novelist of society, like Robert W. Chambers, despite his cleverness, depicts a social aspirant as donating a large cheque to the bishop, to further his social ascent, and its being the talk of the clubs. A mondaine such as Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, who is today and always has been an active factor in ultra-fashionable life at home and abroad, would not think of committing such an anachronism in one of her novels. The ultra-smart set frame of mind with reference to the church is also succinctly set forth by Mrs. Wharton in "The House of Mirth," when she cites Mrs. Trenor, the leader of fashion in her novel, and hostess of a week-end house party, as saying:

"You know, we have to have the bishop once a year. I always have had bad luck about the bishop's visits. Last year when he came Gus forgot all about his being here and brought home the Ned Wintons and the Farleys—five divorces and six sets of children between them!"

"In the ultra-smart set, then in London, and in New York and Newport, what with Saturday night dances ending at three o'clock in the morning of the Lord's day; what with Sunday motoring, country club lunching, golfing, yachting and bridge, the breach away from the church is deepening and widening every day. The clergy have almost disappeared from fashion's invitation lists, and are being remanded by its votaries to their rightful spiritual province—the functions of baptizing, burying and marrying them; provided the latter ceremony does not for statutory reasons have to be performed by a civil magistrate. One must not, however, form the perverse notion that there do not exist in the ultra-fashionable set whole groups of devout communicants of churches, as well as philanthropists.

"The Episcopal Church and the Catholic Church are the churches of beautiful manners, and if your birth has placed you under the ban of being a dissenter, cultivate Episcopal emotions and shuffle off the mortal coil of Presbyterianism on as short notice as possible. Affect the church with a hierarchy, if only for the subjective effect it will have upon your manners. Ralph Waldo Emerson said no truer thing in his English Traits than that 'You can tell a dissenter by his manners.' You can divine that some women were not born in the church by their smile.

Send Daughters to France.

"If one is blessed with young daughters, no matter what one's creed, hurry them away to a French convent for a while, for a convent is a school of respect, a nursery of beautiful manners, inculcating what always makes a young woman doubly attractive to mankind—the subjection of women. To see convent-bred manners in their flower and fruition, one really needs to know the delightful society of the continent of Europe. For your daughters' finishing choose the most fashionable metropolitan schools, entertaining your daughter's schoolmates, i. e., those from fashionable families, lavishly and often, for there is no more unerring entering wedge than thus winning over their parents to your Napoleonic campaign of the social allied powers.

"Do not, I beg of you, turn yourself and family into a national one-night stand theatre-comique, by making the grand tour of hiring cottages at Newport, Lenox and the other modish resorts before society has given the slightest recognition to your claims to be passed upon. Invoke the aid of old Father Neptune; secure a yacht as sumptuous a one as you please, and, socially speaking, if your bark sink, 'tis to another sea. If ignored or snubbed at Newport, spread sail for Narragansett Pier or Bar Harbor, felicitating yourself that the social thud is not barbed with the added poignancy of one's having been a cottager in a place and not being received. Furthermore, there is no more acceptable mode of entertaining and of putting people under heavy obligations than the ownership of yachts and opera boxes.

Thatchless Get Hair Hope

Fine! But Does It Hurt?

HOW FAMOUS MEN LOOK WITH "SEW-ON" HAIR

SOME PROUD OF SHINING DOMES, AND WILL NONE OF HUNGARIAN MARVEL

"Wife, please sew a button on my coat and six hairs on my head."

That's what Boston's bald-headed men will be saying when the Hungarian hair needle comes into general use.

Dr. Szekely (pronounced see-kelly) of Buda Pesth is the inventor of the latest and most promising hair restorer, and his is the most reasonable and logical method yet discovered. The old Doc sews the hair on with an electric needle, hair by hair.

There used to be an old joke that the only way to put hair on a bald-headed man was to nail it on. That is exactly what See Kelly is doing. He punches a hole in the scalp and sticks a hair in each hole.

The best feature of the new method is that you do not have to have your own hair restored. If it used to be red before it went away, it can be replaced by a beautiful crop of raven tresses, and if it had become all gray it can be brought back in the pristine darkness of youth.

Just Sews 'Em In Your Scalp.

Doctor Kelly, odd to find an Irish name in Hungary, has invented an almost invisible gold wire bent into a tiny loop, in which a sterilized hair is placed on the point of a needle.

The needle sticks into the scalp, is withdrawn leaving loop and attached hair. In an hour five hundred hairs can be planted in this manner, in ten hours five thousand hairs, which is quite a respectable growth.

CHEER UP THERE ARE ONLY 10,000 MORE

If you only have a bald spot this is all you need.

Professor Charles Townsend Copeland of Harvard, for example, who has been trying to get fresh sod for a patch of desert about three inches in diameter, will be niftily fixed up in a few hours.

Thomas W. Lawson wouldn't have to occupy the chair more than three or four hours to emerge with the crop he had when he wrote "Frenzied Finance."

On the other hand, it would take about a week to provide Elmer Chickering, the photographer, and Congressman Samuel McCall and John D. Rockefeller will have to arrange to see Kelly for a month.

The Doc guarantees that the artificial harvest can be treated like ordinary hair. The gold root gives no trouble, is not itchy and doesn't come out. The hair can be brushed and combed and treated like ordinary roofing.

Of course, they wear out single, but when the crop begins to get thin, a fresh treatment is all that is necessary.

Some of the best known bald headed men around Boston were interviewed yesterday in the interests of the new scientific discovery.

No Worse Than Third Degree.

"Pretty expensive, this gold wire business, if you needed a couple of million hairs," remarked Chief of Police Bill Watts, as he passed his hand over his polished white thought generator. "I wonder if it's painful. It can't be any worse than the third degree."

Harry B. Metcalf, the well-known poet and litterateur, is redeemed from unblushing baldness by three devoted hairs, but he does not look with favor on the new plan.

"Truth is bald, and so am I.
False hair, therefore, I decry."

—he remarked metrically.

Colonel Dick Field, assistant secretary to Mayor Fitzgerald, is unwilling to submit to the Kelly operation.

"My duties frequently compel me to act as censor of plays, especially musical plays," said Colonel Field. "It is necessary for me to occupy front seats on these occasions, and as that row is reserved exclusively for bald headed men, I've got to qualify, haven't I?"

Dr. T. J. Reardon of Commonwealth avenue, the specialist upon throats, was so busy examining throats he forgot to watch his hair, so it isn't there any more.

"This plan has its merits," said the doctor, "but, do you know, except in fly time, bald headedness is not uncomfortable. For one thing, brushes and combs are not necessary. I address each of my hairs by name and they do just what I tell them."

Charlie Wirth, the well-known restaurateur, is another gentleman who regards his bald head with affection.

"It is in its way a trade mark," said Mr. Wirth. "I should part with it with reluctance."

Larry Sullivan, the prominent cafe proprietor, is willing to resume his thatch if it can be induced to come back. "Does it hurt much? That's what I want to know?" he demanded.

James H. Vahey, whose curly locks are not so thick as they used to be, indignantly denied that he would patronize the Hungarian seamstress system.

"If I am losing my hair, it is because of mental effort in behalf of the people of Massachusetts. They are honorable losses. I do not regret them."

Theodore N. Vail, president of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, also denied he felt any personal interest in hair restorers.

"My interest is purely scientific. I hope for the sake of posterity that baldness can be obliterated, though to be sure, some of us look better bald than hairy."

The concensus of bald head opinion, however, is that the progress of Dr. Kelly's hair sewing machine cannot be too rapid.

Free Trial Package.

There is no occasion to suffer five minutes from indigestion or any similar stomach trouble when you can so easily get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. When millions are used every year—and when every other man or woman that you meet will recommend Stuart's to you if you will but inquire—why do you continue to suffer from stomach trouble? What more evidence can you ask? And as still further proof you can even send and get a sample package entirely free. The sample will surely convince you.

The Time It Takes a Messenger to Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Seem an Age to a Sick Stomach.

The reasons why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets accomplish such results are very easy to understand. These tablets contain almost the same elements as the gastric juices of the stomach. And when your stomach is sick and not working just right, it does not give out enough of the natural digestive juices to properly take care of the food you eat. So if you will only give the stomach a little help by taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet you will relieve it of its chief duty and allow it the rest it needs to recuperate. One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet will digest 3,000 grains of food, whether you place it in a glass jar or in your stomach.

SALEM IS AGAIN SUED BY WOMAN

City Treasurer William H. Rollins of Salem, in his official capacity, has been served with a writ in a suit against the city of Salem, brought by Miss Charlotte Fairfield, the independent coal dealer, in an action for damages for $10,000. The writ is returnable the first Monday in April. No details as to the cause of the action are certified and it is assumed that it is on the same grounds as her previous suit alleging interference with her business through the filling in of her dock by the city sewerage.

Miss Fairfield recently won a verdict of $23,000 against the city in the Superior Court, which is now pending in the Supreme Court.

ATHOL CELEBRATES 150TH BIRTHDAY

ATHOL, March 6.—Citizens of Athol today celebrated the 150th anniversary of the town's incorporation. The town was incorporated on March 6, 1762, and was named after a Scottish duke named Athol. At sunrise today whistles were blown and bells rung for a period of ten minutes. The school children held exercises in the morning of a patriotic character. There were patriotic lectures this afternoon for the grown people, while tonight at the opera house the people of the town will listen to Wilson H. Lee of New Haven, a former resident of the town.

ROOSEVELT WINS VOTE IN VERMONT

MORRISVILLE, Vt., March 6.—Colonel Roosevelt is the choice for President of the voters of Lamoille County, Vt., according to a test vote in the annual town meetings.

Presidential candidates were voted for in every town in the county except Hyde Park, home of United States Senator Carroll S. Page, where no town meeting was held, owing to a smallpox scare.

W. K. VANDERBILT, JR., NOW VICE-PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, March 6.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who already has several millions of his own, today received an advance of salary. He was elected vice-president of all the New York Central lines, and thus came into more active relationship with the management. Until today he had been only a director in some lines of the New York Central system.

SAY INSPECTION IS MERE FARCE

The present factory inspection was denounced as a farce by several speakers at a hearing before the Legislative Committee on Labor today on a bill providing for the creation of a labor department, to take over the enforcement of all the labor laws of the Commonwealth at present under the supervision of the district police or the State Board of Health.

Two hearings have been given on the matter previously, and today's session was devoted to closing arguments.

Ex-Representative Sheehan of Holyoke said the chief of the district police has frequently told him the reason the laws are not enforced better there is that he has not a sufficient number of inspectors. "Factory inspection is a farce at present," he said, "and criminal officers are often detailed to do factory inspection work."

This statement was denied by Chief Whitney.

Charles F. Bradley, secretary of the Consumers' League, favored the bill.

Ex-Representative Robert N. Turner of Waltham said the only argument which former-Attorney-General Parker was able to make against the bill at a previous hearing was that the inspectors which it creates would not have police powers. Mr. Turner questioned the truth of the statement, but said that even if it is true the addition of a few words to the bill will effectively remedy the defect.

CHINESE SLAY A MISSIONARY

TIEN TSIN, March 6.—In an anti-foreign uprising in Ching-Ho today, following the mutiny of the garrison, Rev. F. Day, an English missionary, was shot, and an attempt was made to assassinate Rev. F. S. Hughes, another missionary. Several shots were fired at Mr. Hughes, but all missed their mark.

The mutiny at Ching-Ho was marked by atrocious deeds. Many Chinese were killed, property was pillaged and a part of the town burned. At the height of the rioting an attack was made on the mission. The missionaries pleaded with the leaders, but were unable to stop the looting murder and arson.

President Yuan Shi Kai has at last gained complete control of the situation in Pekin and today terrible punishment was meted out to mutineers and pillaging outlaws in wholesale executions. In one batch more than one hundred and fifty persons were beheaded. Heads of victims were stuck on poles and carried through the streets with written warnings appended. Several women arrested for looting were put to death. They came from the lowest classes and fought side by side with the men in the mobs which plundered the city.

"Liberty has cost China 100,000 human lives and before order is restored and the republican government is fully established, probably as many again will fall victims to anarchy and internecine turbulence."

SOCIETY GOES TO THE AUTO SHOW

GOVERNOR FOSS AND FAMILY WILL ATTEND TONIGHT—DEALERS LOOK FOR BIG DAY.

By J. C. KERRISON.

This is "Society Day" at Mechanics Building and as a result the automobile show has taken on an appearance of grandeur and splendor never before equalled by a show of like character in this city.

While the visitors do not number as great as those of the first two days of the show, they are what is known as a "purchasing crowd."

This fact became apparent to the exhibitors soon after the doors were opened when several cars were sold readily. Before the doors close tonight the biggest sales day of the week is expected to be recorded.

Today might also be called Governor's Day, for Governor Foss and his family are expected at the show this evening. Today's exhibition for that reason is more like a great social function.

It is a dressy crowd that parades about the halls today. Nearly all the women are gowned in beautiful dresses, while their escorts are attired in full evening clothes. The exhibitors and the salesmen are also arrayed in their white fronts.

Society Out in Force.

Society members of the Back Bay and Brookline colonies as well as the surrounding towns were well represented in the throng today. Soon after 11 o'clock they began to arrive and before long the halls became comfortably filled with the members of Boston's "400."

The beautiful gowns of the women of various shades and patterns and the natty appearance of their male escorts, together with the artistic decorations, had the effect of setting off the magnificent cars to brilliant advantage.

The riot of coloring vied to make the scene throughout the great building one of bewildering splendor and magnificence.

"Society Day" at the Boston Automobile Show ranks second to none in the country. It occupies a place by itself for beauty and harmony. All the exhibitors appear to be in accord on this statement.

Show For Women Folk.

Wandering through the building and examining the different exhibits at the various booths, today's visitors demonstrated that they were well equipped with knowledge regarding the automobile.

The salesmen were plied with numerous questions regarding the mechanism and even the women seemed to be primed with information bearing on spark plugs, carburetters, engines, etc., which was a revelation to the dealers.

Such a knowledge of the auto never existed in the lay mind a few years ago, and would tend to show that they have studied the subject so that they have become well versed in all its details.

It has been noticeable this year, that the women have taken a far deeper interest in the intricacies of the automobile than ever before. It may be because of the ever before. It may be because of the fact that it is leap year and the gentler sex feel that this is their show.

The real reason however, lays in the fact that the auto has been so simplified in the last few years, and especially during the year passed, that it does not require much preparation to get a good working knowledge of its equipment and operation.

New Appliances in Cars.

The fair sex can handle an auto just as easily and as successfully as a member of the sterner gender. This has been chiefly brought about by the numerous improvements in the up-to-date cars.

Among these improvements is the self-starter which eliminates the hazard of cranking up a car. Instead of an operator getting out of his machine and turning a handle in front of the car, with loss of energy and danger of the crank flying back, he now sits in his car and by pressing a little button the engine is started up for him.

The upholstering in the cars this season are also of a more lavish nature than ever. In many cars at the show they are ten inches in thickness which makes riding an even greater comfort than formerly. As for the limousines, they are veritable palace cars.

One of the features of the automobile industry this year is the adoption of the new motor called the Silent Knight. The acceptance of this motor has a peculiar history.

Knight Motor History.

The inventor, Charles Y. Knight, is a Chicago man. For some time he tried to introduce his motor to the American builders, but none seemed willing to give it a trial. He then went to Europe, where it was almost immediately adopted and now it is back in this country again as the feature of several American built cars.

This motor is on exhibition at several of the booths and never fails to attract great attention.

All the exhibitors at this year's show are delighted with the present display and are unanimous in their belief that it is the greatest in the country. This may be owing to the fact that it comes just at the right time.

The exhibitions in New York and Chicago are held in the Winter, when the interest in automobiles is passive. The Boston show, as this year, being held in March, is just at the opening of the outdoor season when people are beginning to talk about getting a car.

This perhaps accounts for the reason that the Boston show leads all others in the country for the large number of sales made during show week.

NOTES OF THE SHOW

The Flanders Colonial Electric is the admiration of all the fair sex at the show. "Isn't she a beauty," is an expression frequently heard at the booth of this car, in the basement. The car is built on far different lines than any other seen on exhibition.

It is a new design of the coupe type and built on a cradle suspension with a long wheel base. This affords a roomy body capable of carrying six passengers. The model of the driving axle turned by an electric fan, demonstrating how easily it runs, attracts much attention from the visitors.

* * *

If the Babcock Electric car is not well and favorable known to the visitors of the show before the end of the week, it will not be the fault of Miss Virginia E. Aiken, of Brookline. Miss Aiken, who is only sixteen years old and very pretty, has the distinction of being the youngest automobile representative in New England.

That she is thoroughly acquainted with everything that is to be known about the natty car is easily learned after a few minutes at her booth. That she has been so successful in selling is entirely due to her great knowledge of the mechanism of the car.

* * *

The Winton booth in the main hall is always crowded with an interested throng, attracted by the magnificent six-cylinder cars on exhibition there. The stripped chassis shows to the visitors the working parts of the finished product, which is considered one of the prettiest cars at the show.

* * *

There is one car at the show which is a sort of a magnet for all visitors. This is the famous Marmon "Wasp," the racing car driven by Ray Harroun when he won the famous 500-mile international sweepstake race at Indianapolis last year.

The yellow sides of the car stand out in bold relief from the other colors and the visitor reads with amazement that this was the car which travelled the 500 miles at an average speed of 74½ miles an hour and established a new world's record.

* * *

Another feature at the Marmon booth which is of much interest is the magnificent collection of trophies won by cars of that make in various contests of speed throughout the country.

* * *

The Stutz car booth is an attractive one for the women, for each of the fair sex is presented with a red carnation, typifying the red car. Their offering accounted for the numerous red carnations that nearly every woman in the show wears.

* * *

The largest car in the show is the Oldsmobile "Limited," which occupies a conspicuous place in the basement. It is a six cylinder, seven passenger touring car, and the size of its wheels are to wonder at. Although it is a 90 horsepower motor, it can be handled as easily as one of 20 horsepower. The "Limited" is the Jumbo of the show.

That this is the biggest selling show ever held in Boston is proved by the statement of Charles E. Fay, local manager of the Ford car. During the show week last year Mr. Fay sold 250 cars, while for the first two days of the present show he has disposed of 150 cars, which means that last year's sales will be eclipsed before the end of the week arrives.

* * *

Walter White, of the White Company, arrived in town late yesterday afternoon, and was given a royal welcome by his host of friends in this city. Walter White is perhaps one of the best known men in the industry.

A keen business man and a thorough sportsman he has gained a country wide reputation. He has in the past been a strong supporter of all contests and events that will in any way assist in advancing the interests of the industry and has personally driven in many Glidden tours, hill-climbing contest and some of the most famous races of the country.

* * *

President Wilson G. H. Randolph, of the Endurance Tire and Rubber Company, reached here this morning, and after looking over the situation expressed the belief that Boston is one of the greatest markets in the country.

* * *

The Imperial car, which is one of the medium priced cars at the show, comes in for a great deal of favorable comment during the day. The salesmen at the Imperial booth are kept busy explaining the many fine points of the car to prospective buyers.

* * *

The Case car, which occupies a booth in the basement, is another exhibit that calls for much favorable comment. The local agent is immensely pleased with the hit this car has made at the show and is satisfied that many will be seen on the roads in this section this Summer.

The Hollander Motor Company is exhibiting the lowest priced car at the show in the little Metz, which is a local product, being manufactured in Waltham. During the recent Glidden tour the Metz overcame all obstacles that harassed the tourist and which proved disastrous to many of the higher priced cars.

* * *

The friction transmission is responsible largely for the great popularity of the Carter car at the show, which is being shown by the Williams Auto Company. With any number of speeds, a simple one-lever control, and its reliability, makes it an ideal form of automobile transmission.

* * *

H. H. Rice, sales manager of the Marmon, is visiting Local Agent Wing at the show, and complimented him on his success in his large number of sales. The Marmon is certainly making a strong bid for public approval at the show, and its booth is a mecca for many of the visitors.

* * *

Messrs. Salzman, Joyce and Barry are at the show from the factory of the Selden car, the "daddy" of them all, and expressed themselves as being extremely gratified over the attention the Selden is attracting from the buying public. "The Boston show is immense" they chorused when asked their opinion.

* * *

The Weed tire exhibit in the balcony is an interesting one, and the booth is usually crowded with visitors. There the biggest wheel in the show is on exhibition, the tire of which is crowned with a special Weed chain built along the same principle as those on rear wheels to keep the cars from slipping on icy or slippery ground.

* * *

Manager Hawley of the Studebaker Corporation, is to entertain all the New England salesmen of the Studebaker car at a dinner tomorrow. He will be assisted at the reception by Frank DeWitt, who drove to victory at Savannah; George Phillips, the retail local salesman; Mr. Smith of the factory and several others.

The Studebaker booth at the show is always crowded with those interested in the numerous models on exhibition. To hear Frank DeWitt describe the chassis it not only entertaining, but educational as well.

* * *

President Wilson and G. H. Randolph of the Endurance Tire and Rubber Company are in town to attend the Boston show. While here they will be the guests of J. H. Cooper, assistant sales manager.

"Action Speaks Louder Than Words"

This is the reason why the majority of automobile manufacturers are specifying "AC STAR" as standard equipment for their 1912 product. They have watched with interest the performance of the "AC STAR" on such cars as the Blitzen-Benz of Bob Burman and the 200 H. P. Fiat, which machines, having engines with long stroke and high compression, are extremely severe on spark plugs. The "AC STAR" is adapted to all kinds of service and its superior three-piece porcelain construction renders it proof against breakage from heat or vibration.

"35" Marion $1285

This Self-Starting Car Has Never Been Lowered or Cut in Strength and Construction

The self-starting Marion "Thirty-five" at $1285 is built for those seeking a good high-grade car that will meet all the requirements of everyday life. It is built for those who want a car better than the ordinary. And those who investigate what it offers invariably find more than they ever expected for the price.

For example: The most vital and at the same time the weakest point in all cars today is the rear system. The Marion rear system is, without exception, the strongest made. It is the identical system we had in our famous $1850 car. It is practically frictionless. There are five double annular bearings in the transmission, two Timken roller bearings in the differential, two roller bearings in the axle and one in the drive shaft. The housing is made of aluminum, instead of iron, which cuts the weight of the car 82 pounds. The gears (made of Chrome Vanadium steel) are so thoroughly and finely fitted that all jars, noises and jolts are absolutely eliminated. Under any condition this car will run smooth and silent. The brakes are exceptionally large and heavy.

Compare the Marion rear system with the rear system of any other popular priced car you know of, and the contrast will show you unexpected strength and value in the Marion, and no end of faulty and weak spots in the other car.

The Marion has a pressed steel bottle neck drop frame with side members reinforced. Lots of leg room and big doors. You will not find this design in any other car selling for less than $3000. Unusually large Timken bearings in the differential make possible an extra large axle shaft, and a stronger differential hub. And you also find the very best upholstery, not leatherette, but real hand-buffed leather over genuine curled hair. The wheel base measures 112 inches; the tires are 4-inch, quick detachable. No-rim-cut type.

These are a few of the facts you must bear in mind when picking your car. Look further than a motor or a rim. Dig into the essentials. See what holds the car together—on what its operation depends—and you will get a line on the life of the car, and the comfort or discomfort you will get out of it.

SOCIETY DAY AT AUTO SHOW PROVES A BRILLIANT FETE

Largest Sales Day of the Week Expected by Exhibitors at Mechanics' Building.

who is in charge of the exhibit at the show.

The Locomobile Company of America has brought out a brand new feature, which is being exhibited for the first time. It has conceived the idea of constructing miniature models, painted in tasteful, harmonious color combinations, and made to exact scale, thus giving the true lines of the cars. Space at any automobile show barely suffices to exhibit types, a wide variety of colors being impossible.

A method of showing color schemes was needed, as it is absurd to expect a customer, who objects to the color of an open car, to obtain any clear idea of that car painted differently, by viewing a limousine having the desired specifications.

These miniature models are cut in half in the same manner as yacht models are designed, so that they can be hung on the wall from hooks, and they are so light as to permit of their being moved about readily.

Those interested in the Knight motor have an exceptional opportunity of seeing exactly how it is constructed at the booth of the Atlas Motor Car Company at the Boston Automobile Show. The new Atlas-Knight engine, adopted by this company for its 1913 Atlas-Knight car, will be shown just as it looks before being assembled.

Thousands of jonquils will be distributed by the Velie Boston branch from the Velie booth today to mark "Society Day." Throughout the show the decorations at the Velie salesroom and at the Velie booth will be carried out in yellow. The salesroom of the Velie Boston branch has been transferred into a bower of Spring flowers with bulbs adorning the windows and the entire interior of the store. This pergola effect has been carried out at the salesroom where hundreds of prospects have been transported by the Velie Boston branch.

Among the cars on exhibition at Mechanics Building is the Marion, which has been on the market since the pioneer days. This popular car, which is sold in this district by the Marion Garford Sales Company, No. 1016 Commonwealth avenue, has had a steady and increasing demand.

Included in the Marion exhibit is Model 35 and Model 33, which contains practically the same chassis. The former is a five-passenger fore door touring car, while the latter includes a two-passenger open roadster and two-passenger torpedo roadster. Both are thirty horsepower cars, selling for $1,285 for the touring car and $1.150 for the roadster.

T. R. Burton, who for several years was Boston manager for Morgan & Wright and who has many friends in New England, is here attending the show. Since the organization of the United States Tire Company Mr. Burton has been stationed at Pittsburg as branch manager, and he is just leaving this position to become assistant to O. S. Tweedy, Eastern manager for the United States Tire Company, with headquarters at New York.

The Atlas Motor Car Company makes its advent at the show with a 1913 model, which combines a new Knight engine—called the Atlas-Knight—and a worm gear drive, which it has designed and made in its own factory. This company claims superior features for both its engine and its rear axle and has also embodied in its car other features, which thus far have been confined solely to foreign-built cars.

Artist Moynahan's impression of the lighter side of the great Auto Exhibit.

One of the most effective and best arranged demonstrations of auto apparatus exhibited at the show is that of the Hartford Suspension Company of Jersey City, N. J. The models necessary to illustrate the working parts of inventions have to be specially constructed, and the care and perfection of details and the fine workmanship necessary indicate that auto exhibits run into real money.

Fred Ayers, manager of the Boston branch, Fisk tires, in commenting on the exhibit, declared that visitors to the show often express surprise at the large size of pneumatic tires now produced by some of the leading makers.

"At the Fisk exhibit," he said, "is shown a 5x43 tire, and another 6x40, both being splendid examples of the perfected pneumatic tire. It is not generally known among the public that the Fisk Rubber Company were pioneers in the field of interchangeable tires and today manufacture a 5x43 casing, interchangeable with the 4½x42, and so on down the list of 19 interchangeable sizes to 3½x29, which fits a 3x28 rim."

Accessibility to all oiling parts is a feature that will appeal to buyers of 1912 Overland cars. Instead of placing the very important oil and grease cups in such positions that they are unhandy and difficult to reach, much care has been exercised in making them accessible.

Where many cars contain only drilled oil holes, the Overland designers have this year used oil cups, which make for a cleaner car and prevent the oil running into other parts. Grease cups have also been substituted in places where on many makes small oil cups are used.

"The Boston show is one of the most attractive automobile shows I ever saw," said William L. Colt, president of the Colt-Stratton Company, New York city, general Eastern distributors for Cole motor cars, who visited the show yesterday.

"Since the first of the year I have visited practically all the leading automobile shows, and the Boston show compares favorably with any of them, not excepting the exhibits in New York or Chicago. Every car of standing is represented and well represented. The decorations I think are exceptionally good looking, and it would be difficult to improve on the facilities for showing the cars. It seems to me that the Boston automobile dealers have every reason to be proud of their 1912 show."

It is interesting to note that the Moon

Women Display Great Interest in Large Variety of Cars and Accessories.

Motor Car Company, for which Andrews-Dykeman are New England agents, are among the first to develop self starters. As far back as the New York Auto Show of 1908 a Moon car was exhibited with a self starter. While at that time this feature was shown merely as a novelty, the present Moon self starter is the result of practical experience, in which an innumerable number of self starters of various types were tested and thrown aside. The Moon exhibit at the show is complete and in charge of men who understand the various models put out by the company.

Did you ever wonder what a tire is made of? If so, you may see all the materials and learn about them by stopping any day during the Auto Show at the local Firestone. There is a large slice of ham, not the pork variety, but a tough rubber article made of sap from the wild rubber trees of South America congealed into the shape of a huge ball. Then there is a thin sheet of this rubber showing what it looks like after it had been rolled, washed and thoroughly dried out. The next process is illustrated by a chunk of compounded rubber ready to be rolled into a thin layer and cut into strips for the tire builder.

Goodyear No-Rim-Cut Tires

Their Sensational Lead At the Show

At the Automobile Show, 144 cars are equipped with Goodyear pneumatic tires.

Our nearest competitor equips 44 cars.

Our next nearest competitor 41 cars.

Our third competitor equips 39 cars.

The Goodyear tire leads its nearest competitor by 251 per cent.

At the two New York shows we led our nearest competitor—on pneumatic tires—by 167 per cent.

At Chicago by 59 per cent.

Reports on 44 Shows held this year show that Goodyear tires equipped more cars than any other two makes combined.

Why This Amazing Showing?

The reason is simply this:

Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires have suddenly become the most popular tires in existence.

The sale in two years has multiplied six times over. It has trebled in a single year.

Last year it ran 409,521 tires. That was more than the previous twelve years put together.

Now no other tire compares in sales with Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

127 Makers Adopt Them

For the year 1912, 127 leading motor car makers have contracted for Goodyear tires. That is the reason for this lead at all Shows.

Motor car makers are experts on tires. They know the tires which prove most satisfactory. They know the trend of the times. They know the tires most wanted by the men who buy their cars.

What they have decided, by overwhelming majority, is told at all these Shows.

Save $1,000,000 Monthly

Statistics show that 23 per cent. of all ruined clincher tires are rim-cut. Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires wipe out this loss entirely. Rim-cutting is forever avoided.

Then No-Rim-Cut tires are 10 per cent. oversize. That means 10 per cent. more air—10 per cent. greater carrying capacity. And that, under average conditions, adds 25 per cent. to the tire mileage.

These two features together—No-Rim-Cut and oversize—for tens of thousands of motorists have cut tire bills in two.

GOOD YEAR
No-Rim-Cut Tires
With or Without
Double-Thick Non-Skid Treads

Based on present demand, they will save motor car owners a million a month this year.

No Extra Price

No-Rim-Cut tires now cost no more than other standard tires. They used to cost one-fifth extra.

Their saving is entirely clear.

Tires that can't rim-cut cost no more than tires that do. Oversize tires cost no more than tires just rated size.

Those are the reasons for this vast popularity of Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

The only way to make a practical tire of this type is controlled by the Goodyear patents. That is why the demand for this new-type tire centers so largely on the Goodyear make.

This is all explained in our Tire Book. The book is filled with facts you should know, based on 13 years spent in tire making. Ask us to mail it to you.

LITTLEST REBEL AT AUTO SHOW

Seldom is it the privilege of the public to meet off the stage any of the many charming people of the theatrical world. Virgie, the clever and captivating little star, playing the "Littlest Rebel" in the Dustin and William Farnum production at the Boston Theatre, who has created such a sensation by her beautiful and marvelous acting of this character, is one who loves to meet people at close range. She takes great interest in everything that appeals to ordinary little humans of her age.

Tomorrow and Friday afternoons she does not have to be at the theatre, so she is going to the Automobile Show. On those days the Selden Motor Vehicle Company is going to present souvenir boxes of Park & Tilford candies to the ladies, and Virgie has offered to distribute them herself; so between 3 and 5 o'clock on Thursday and Friday afternoons all ladies visiting the show are invited to meet this charming little miss and to receive a souvenir from her own hands.

10,000-MILE FACTORY GUARANTEE GIVEN WITH RAMBLER CARS

The announcement by the Thomas B. Jeffery Company of a 10,000-mile factory guarantee on every Rambler car was easily the most talked-of incident of the day among the trade at the show and is sure to be regarded by the public as the longest step that has been taken in recent years toward providing for the public the most adequate assurance of efficient service.

This guarantee is part of the plan of the Rambler people for giving to the public the benefit of their extensive factory facilities and branch service aid, now being exemplified in the erection of the new four-store service building on Commonwealth avenue.

G. M. Berry, secretary of the company, made the announcement. "To give you an idea of what this guarantee means," said Mr. Berry. "Think of how far you could drive your car before you exhausted such a guarantee. Step into your car in Boston. Drive straight across the country to Chicago. Take your bearings and turn west across the great American desert to Salt Lake City and on to Frisco. Go down the coast to Los Angeles and turn back across 500 miles of desert to El Paso.

"Continue on your way to New Orleans and taking in Atlanta make your way back to Boston. Then turn right around and go straight back across the American continent to San Francisco and yet you have not exhausted the Rambler 10,000-mile guarantee."

Every purchaser will receive a copy of this guarantee when he buys a Rambler and its limitations in regard to accessories and other features will be explained to him at that time.

MANY SALES ARE REPORTED

The business at the Boston show has merely been a repetition of what has occurred at the other big shows. The retail business, which is, perhaps, the best index to the popularity of the car, has been particularly brisk at the Buick booth.

Every show job on the floor was sold out before the show closed on Monday night. On Tuesday up until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, there had been seventeen retail sales made. The wholesale business has been equally as gratifying; over 200 orders have been taken to be distributed to dealers in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

All New England is enthusiastic over Buick cars and the present season will very likely increase the percentage of cars in this popular make which is already represented by 9 per cent. of the total cars registered in Massachusetts.

The Buick booth is full of active buyers during the entire day and evening, and no better demonstration of the value of the annual automobile show to the dealers could be given than by the splendid business conditions existing at this one exhibit.

WATER IN POMPEIIAN RUINS 2,000 YEARS

NAPLES, March 6.—Many interesting discoveries have been made in connection with the excavations in the ruins of Pompeii. A street leading to the Forum, which was closed at both ends by stone pillars for the purpose of excluding carriages, now proves to have been one of the chief thoroughfares of the city. In one shop a large terra cotta kitchen range was discovered, on the top of which rested a copper boiler containing water, which, the scientists say, has been there since the time of the eruption, nearly 2,000 years ago.

MISS PANKHURST'S LECTURE CANCELLED

NEW YORK, March 6.—The lecture of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst on how her mother led the suffrage rioting last week in London which resulted in her imprisonment at Mt. Morris Baptist church on the evening of March 21 has been cancelled. This announcement was made today after a meeting of the Men's League of the church to reconsider the advisability of having Miss Pankhurst deliver thelecture.

P. M. TUCKER'S AUTO DAMAGED IN CRASH

Harvard's Political Ban Rouses Students

Edict Barring College Halls to Propagandas Believed Outgrowth of Pankhurst Incident.

The ruling of the Harvard Corporation "that the halls of the university shall not be open for persistent or systematic propaganda on contentious questions of contemporaneous, social, economic, political or religious interests," created no end of discussion among the undergraduates today. The edict is believed to be a step further in the position taken by the corporation when it refused Mrs. Sylvia Pankhurst, the Suffragette, permission to speak in any Harvard hall.

Among the clubs affected by the decision is the Harvard Socialist Club, which includes in its membership Samuel A. Eliot, Jr., grandson of President Emeritus Eliot and other well known students.

Somerville Woman Gets Reno Divorce

Says Husband Walked Out in 1906 And Hasn't Got Back Yet.

Mrs. Amy A. Bleakney is today on her way to Somerville from Reno, Nev., after securing a divorce there on the ground of desertion, from Edgar I. Bleakney, according to dispatches received by friends here. Mrs. Bleakney has lived in a cottage in Reno since last July.

Before Judge Ducker in the District Court in Reno, she related a pitiful story of her husband's neglect and abandonment of her and their nine-year-old child.

According to evidence offered, her husband, Edgar I. Bleakney, disappeared from their Boston home as if the earth had swallowed him. Every possible effort was made to locate him so that service might be obtained in action for divorce, but without result.

"He left our home one day and said he would return in a few days, after one of his frequent business trips. I have not seen him since. That was September 15, 1906," Mrs. Bleakney declared.

MADAM CERUTTI TO DANCE AT THE OPERA

Mme. Teresa Cerutti, who made such a distinct impression when she appeared last year at the Museum of Fine Arts in a series of ancient dances, will make her initial appearance at the Boston Opera House tonight, when she will interpolate several solos into "L'Enfant Prodigue," Debhssy's one act opera, which is to have its first performance of the season.

Mme. Cerutti will be assisted by the entire corps de ballet of the Boston Opera House, who have been strenuously rehearsing the new evolution for several weeks past.

SETTLES J. J. ASTOR SUIT FOR $5,000

NEWPORT, R. I., March 6.—The suit for $30,000 for the death of her husband while doing repair work on the Astor estate brought by Mrs. Bridget McCrohan against Colonel John Jacob Astor ended in an agreement for $5,000 without costs. Her husband was Eugene P. McCrohan.

OLDFIELD LAUDS STOCK TIRES

Barney Oldfield, the "speed king," who was once very fussy about the tires his machine was equipped with and would have nothing but a special make, has seen a new light and now uses nothing but stock tires in all his great speed events.

"Why, I remember my first race on a regular stock tire. My friends thought I was out of my mind. They begged me not to take such a long chance, and some of them told me after the race that they never expected to see me alive again.

"I was going some in those days, and they knew I wouldn't spare those tires any, once I got started. And I didn't; but I didn't go through any fences, either.

"After that I never used special-made racing tires. You see, it was this way: H. S. Firestone and I were good friends, and when he began to make pneumatic tires I begged him to make me a special racing set.

"All manufacturers did it in those days and, in fact, some do today. But he refused. Well, I made up my mind one day to use them anyway, special made or not, and what's the result?

"The world's greatest races have since been won on stock tires. Harroun, Burman and other great drivers are using them today."

PEERLESS BODIES MOST ADVANCED IN AUTO DESIGNS

An inspection of the new models at the automobile show reveals the fact that the Peerless bodies represent what is accepted as the most advanced type of design and construction. The lines for the most part are straight, and to preserve unbroken the top line of the body the extra seats fold down out of sight when not in use, and the right hand running board is recessed, so the extra tires carried there are not visible above the top of the fore doors.

The control levers are placed inside the body, but this is not done at the sacrifice of comfort, as the driver's seat is particularly roomy and comfortable.

Especial care has evidently been given every detail, with the result that the Peerless bodies for 1912 are among the most symmetrical and beautiful yet designed.

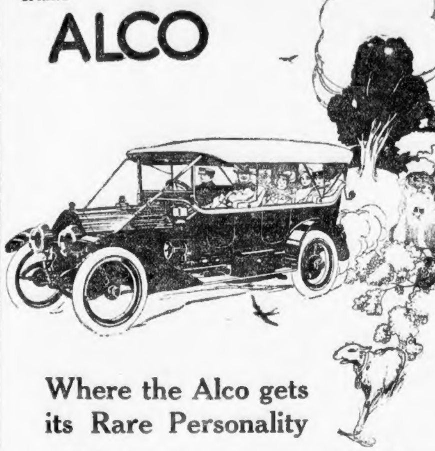
An inspection of the various details of the open and closed bodies is well worth a visit to the Mechanics Building or the Peerless salesroom, No. 660 Beacon street.

RECOUNT WILL BE TAKEN IN IPSWICH

IPSWICH, March 6.—A recount of the vote at the town meeting is to be made on account of the close vote for Overseer of the Poor. Charles G. Howe received 313 and John G. Sterling 312 votes for the office. This and the fact the town swung from no license to license by a majority of forty-two were the features of the meeting. The officers elected were Charles E. Goodhue, selectman; Frank P. Goodhue, Board of Health; Charles W. Bamford, treasurer; William B. Richards, assessor; G. H. W. Hayes and George W. Tozer; school committee; George A. Schofield; water commissioner. License—Yes, 465; No, 423. Last year—Yes, 407; No, 426.

SPRING

ALCO



Where the Alco gets its Rare Personality

AS IN a locomotive, a motor car is strongest only in its weakest part. Therefore the builders of the Alco have provided every part where strain comes with a superhuman test.

In the physics laboratories of the Alco are wonderful machines—Frankenstein in their strength—which test springs, axles, frames and other parts with thousands and thousands of pounds of pressure.

Metals are analyzed into infinitesimal particles in the chemistry laboratories. Every ounce must come up to definite, delicate standards—one of the specification sheets would amaze nine out of ten motor car manufacturers.

This provides the Alco with a personality rare among motor cars.

MOON "40"—$1,800

To the Man Who Can Compare Car Values—

You are the one we most desire to criticise the new Moon Model "40." No matter what your standards of car excellence—no matter what your prejudices—we court your judgment on Moon "40" as a whole, and part by part.

Moon "40" is the achievement of Joseph W. Moon's lifetime success in manufacture. Five years of development are represented in the Moon Motor alone. It is a T-head long-stroke motor of 45 actual horsepower—a triumph in itself.

Transmission, universal joints, propeller shaft, bevel gear and rear axle are guaranteed for 60 horsepower. Nothing less than the utmost in safety satisfies this veteran of thirty years' experience in high-grade steels, whose O. K. must go on every car before it is marketed.

The 120-inch wheel base—big demountable wheels with 36-inch tires front and rear—the smart, roomy all-metal body—are all in keeping with the mighty power and noiseless perfection framed within the Moon Chassis.

See the Moon and know for yourself what amazing car value the price of Moon "40" commands. Call or telephone for demonstration.

We Guarantee Every Rambler for Ten Thousand Miles

Subject to the conditions of our signed guarantee which we will give with each car.

Ten thousand miles! Think what it means!

Step into the Rambler in New York and journey across four states to Chicago. Take your bearings and strike due west across seven states to the Golden Gate.

Run down the Coast to Los Angeles. Turn back over the mountains and on through eight hundred miles of desert to El Paso. Then on to New Orleans and back, by way of Atlanta, through eight states to the city of New York.

Strike out again cross country for Chicago. Then drive your car straightway across the American continent to San Francisco. Yet you have not exhausted the ten thousand mile Rambler guarantee backed by a company of known stability.

We give this guarantee to prove to you our unbounded confidence in every single part that goes into every Rambler car.

The first Rambler Cross Country that left the factory made a three thousand mile test trip through nine states, over the mountains of Pennsylvania to New York, Albany, Boston and back to the factory.

Since then the fame of the Cross Country has spread, and its service has extended to every state in the Union, to every province of Canada, to Mexico, to Australia, South America, Europe and the Orient.

Everywhere this Rambler has gone its performance has strengthened our confidence in its ability to fulfill this guarantee. That is why we do not hesitate to give it.

Eleven years of success in motor car building has so established the stability of this company in manufacturing and financial resources as to make definitely known the responsibility back of this guarantee.

Such a car with this guarantee, backed by such a company whose liberal policy is so widely known, are the reasons why you should have a Rambler.

Just sit down and write us a postal or send the coupon, asking for the catalog. It tells all about the Cross Country and the other 1912 Rambler models.

COMMON GARDEN SAGE RESTORES GRAY AND FADED HAIR TO ITS NATURAL COLOR

The custom of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, which has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh, faded hair when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days, and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist to-day, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

The Story of Welsbach Service

Seventh:—Gas Economy

Ordinary gas light is created by the actual burning up of gas.

Welsbach light is created by the glow of the gas mantle. Only enough gas is consumed to keep the mantle hot.

The ordinary flame "eats up" gas. Its light is an actual "combustion" instead of an incandescent "glow."

The difference, expressed in figures, amounts to more than half your gas bill. For it is a fact that Welsbach light uses only half as much gas as an open-tip flame—yet gives three times the amount of light.

Buy a Welsbach mantle today. Look for the "Shield of Quality" on the box.

That Trouble AboutOurCurrency

Think about this a minute. We need changes in our money system. You know that. Will the proposed Aldrich currency plan make changes for your benefit? Do you know? You ought to know. Nothing is more important for you to know. Now the banks control our money. They can make a panic when they please. They have made a panic. One man has predicted a panic for this year if a "satisfactory currency plan" is not adopted. Is the Aldrich plan "satisfactory"? Will it serve your interests? Do you know? Look on page 343 of Pearson's Magazine for March and find out. The story beginning there tells simply and fully what a few men have done under our present plan and what they can do under the proposed plan. You ought to know this before it's too late.

We have too many doctors. It is hard for them all to make a living. They have to scheme to make both ends meet. Their schemes are bad for your health and pocketbook. The schemes are explained in another article in the same issue of this magazine. A third article shows what some big Democrats think of W. R. Hearst as a Presidential possibility and gives a hint of what Mr. Hearst will do about it. The tale of the first and last loves of Emperor Francis Joseph is another article. And there are seven splendid complete stories, and another chapter of the best novel of mystery that will be printed this year.

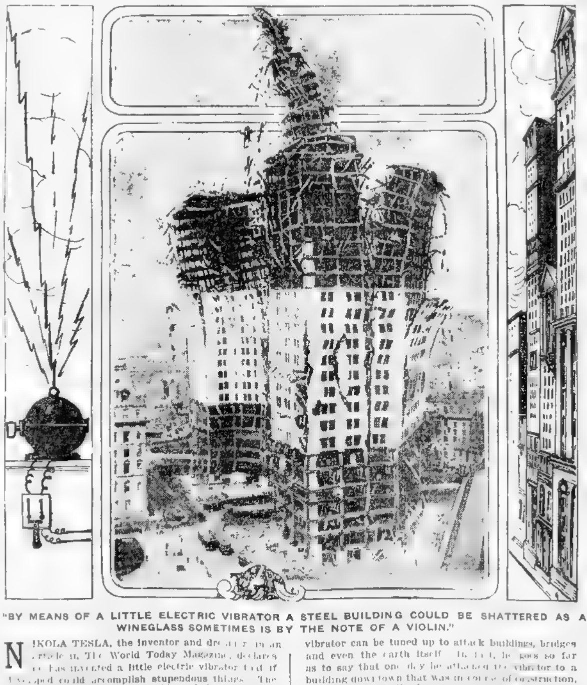
How to Treat Pimples

I[t] is really remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently relieved in a few days. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin soft and smooth. Pimples are a disease of the skin, and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these disfiguring blemishes because it is applied direct to the trouble. It is an antiseptic and prevents infection from disease germs. Cadum should be immediately applied to a pimple, scratch, sore or wound, as neglect of these small troubles sometimes proves serious. At all druggists, 10c. and 25c. per box.

What Nikola Tesla Says He Could Do to a Skyscraper



"BY MEANS OF A LITTLE ELECTRIC VIBRATOR A STEEL BUILDING COULD BE SHATTERED AS A WINEGLASS SOMETIMES IS BY THE NOTE OF A VIOLIN."

NIKOLA TESLA, the inventor and dreamer, in an article in The World Today Magazine, declares he has invented a little electric vibrator that if developed could accomplish stupendous things. The vibrator is developed on the idea of the violin and the wineglass experiment. It is generally known that sometimes a wineglass will break if a certain note is struck on a violin, and Tesla states that his vibrator can be tuned up to attack buildings, bridges and even the earth itself. In fact, he goes so far as to say that one day he attached the vibrator to a building downtown that was in course of construction, and after tuning the instrument to certain vibrations the whole building began to tremble. "If I had kept on ten minutes more I could have laid that building flat in the street," he says.

DESMOND YOU CUR. I HATE YOU
HAVE COURAGE ROSAMOND, MY DARLING, I WILL SAVE YOU, CHINESE WALL OR NO CHINESE WALL!
HERSHFIELD

Before the astonished Chinese their great ceremonial dragon jumps and twists as no real dragon could have done even when St. George had pierced it with his fatal spear. Inside the counterfeit monster a terrible battle is being waged between D. Desmond, villain, and C. Eclaire, hero. If the villain takes an unfair advantage, the struggle can have but one ending.

Now the artist gives you an interior view of the dragon. Behold Claude and Desmond. The latter has declined a hand-to-hand combat and has whipped out his pistol, with which he forces Claude to do his bidding. Our hero is compelled to put his legs into the hollow feet of the dragon, while Desmond does the same with the hind legs. In a moment you will see Desmond's plan.

The plan was to run away, dragon and all. The Chinese, who had hoped to capture Desmond, watch the dragon gallop away at a speed which none of them could equal for a moment. From the hind legs Desmond, with his gun, compels Claude to work the fore legs at terrific speed, and at the least sign of faltering on Claude's part the villain threatens to shoot.

To see a huge dragon rushing and reeling straight at you would ordinarily be enough to send you fleeing for your life, or direct to the nearest lunatic asylum for treatment; but the watchman on the Chinese gate has seen such creatures before. He guesses that some thieves are trying to steal a perfectly good dragon from the city, and prepares to put a stop to their little game.

And the watchman does his duty, if a little late to save the dragon intact. As Claude's half of the animal is outside the walls the watchman lets the heavy gate drop and neatly severs the dragon in the middle. Claude is now outside the walls of the city and Desmond is inside. As Rosamond, too, is in the city, the villain has again been lucky enough to win from Claude once more.

"Over the city wall," sings Desmond, as with the captured Rosamond in his grasp he looks down from the battlements upon Claude, who has been locked out of the city. As the wall is too high to scale and too long to walk around in any reasonable time, it looks as if Claude is now out of it for keeps. Nevertheless, Claude vows to rescue his sweetheart. Tomorrow we shall see if he does.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE STREET, March 6—Midday—Arcadian was an active feature of the Boston market in the morning, and the report that rich diamond drill core had been taken from the property, sent up the prices of its shares.

A dispatch from Houghton says: "The Arcadian north end drill has opened on a fine amygdaloid lode in a territory hitherto unexplored, and which means much to both the new Baltic and Arcadian. Officials are not talking much, but there is no doubt as to the importance of this showing or the richness of the core."

New York and London Markets.

The New York market opened fractionally lower, and a diminished demand for Union Pacific and Steel common was reflected in their prices at the start. When Steel went up yesterday it was rumored that a settlement in the government dissolution suit was a possibility. The report was denied on just as good authority. Today Steel went off ⅛ and Union Pacific ⅜ in the earliest transactions. But a firmer tone prevailed in fifteen minutes.

There was a moderate degree of irregularity at the outset, although a number of active issues made advances. Among them were Southern Railway ⅛, Southern Pacific ⅛, Canadian Pacific ½, Erie preferred ¼. Erie common and Amalgamated Copper were unchanged.

The Curb was dull and steady.

In London, the securities markets opened strong, being influenced by the government defeat in the Manchester by-election and the brightening prospects of a coal labor settlement. The movement is now halting and business has quieted down decidedly.

Consols and home rails display firmness, and a cheerful sentiment is evident regarding tin and rubber issues.

Although quieter, Americans continue firm. Other departments are dull.

De Beers declined 1-16 to 19 9-16. Rio Tintos off ⅝ at 72.

Foreign Metal Prices and Rates.

Spot copper opened in London at £65 1s. 3d., unchanged, and futures at £65 16s. 3d., up 1s. 3d., and the market was steady.

Pig tin opened weak, with spot quoted at £194 10s., off £2; futures, £190, off £1. Spanish pig lead at £15 16s. 3d, was up 1s. 3d.

Bar silver was steady in London at 6⅞, up ⅛. In New York commercial bar silver 58⅝c.; Mexican dollars, 47c.

In Paris, rentes at 94f. 60c. were off ½c.

In London at 12:30 p. m., money was 2⅝@3¼ per cent., discount short bills 3½ per cent., for three months 3⅜@3 7-16 per cent. Consols money 77 11-16, account 77¾.

Boston lending rates for stocks today were Amalgamated 3, Steel and Union Pacific 2, North Butte 4, Calumet & Arizona 2 per cent.

Copper Metal Price and Production.

Electrolytic copper seems to be strongly established on the 14⅝ basis. Foreign buying is heavy and domestic buying good. The government yesterday placed January clearances of copper at 69,689,740 pounds, comparing with 63,618,649 pounds a year ago. Seven months' clearances were 481,-001,240 pounds, against 481,421,000 pounds a year ago and 416,048,170 pounds two years ago.

Average export price of copper for January was 13.24 cents a pound, comparing with 12.95 cents in December. The January average, furthermore, was the highest since the first month of 1910, when it was 13.27 cents.

DON'T PAY PRIDE PRICES For PIANOS

But you must expect to pay for material, work of construction, legitimate expenses covering rents, salesmen's salaries—all these things you must pay for in all lines—not pianos alone. In buying a piano you must avoid paying Pride Prices like the Easy Marks—that is, buying a piano on name alone. We admit that the names of makers of high-class pianos are good guarantees of value and quality, and furthermore we admit that the maker of a fine piano is entitled to a good price for his genius—musical, artistic, etc., but in these days of fierce competition you don't have to pay too big a price for even these qualities. We go into the cold, cruel, competitive market and buy at sacrifice cash prices the best of pianos, some new and some used. They go on our sacrifice floor tagged at a price that covers nothing but hard luck and necessity. We have all makes. We play no favorites. We sell—that's all.

"Confidence Man," "Confidence Game," "Brazen Effrontery," "President Fitz-Promise-Hugh"

"What's All This About"? Say You? Men and Brethren, These Are Some of the Descriptive Terms Applied by a Most Respectable Newspaper to the Big Trunk Line Railroad Which Is Knocking at Boston's Door in Response to the Unanimous Invitation of City Council and State Legislature. What DOES It All Mean? WHO'S Against the Coming of the Grand Trunk?

Two recent newspaper utterances in regard to the coming of the Grand Trunk Railway, and the consequent development of the Port of Boston, the AMERICAN considers of such importance at this time as to justify their republication CONSPICUOUSLY. One of these utterances, appearing in the columns of the Evening Record, calls attention to the fact that a "powerful lobby is at work" against the entry of the Grand Trunk. The other utterance, perhaps, indicates the character of the PUBLIC opposition to the enterprise.

We call attention first to the second of these newspaper utterances. It appeared conspicuously on Sunday at the top of a "feature" page of the Boston Herald. No effort was lost, what with this prominence and a special sort of typing, to indicate to readers of the Herald that the views of its writer are the views of the Herald. The which, taken into consideration along with the verbiage of this strange attack, we consider amazing.

These are some of the terms that a member of the editorial staff of the Boston Herald was allowed to use on Sunday in characterizing the railroad men who are before the Massachusetts Legislature by special and unanimous invitation of that body to "come to Boston":

"Octopus.
"Voracious maw.
"Confidence man.
"Confidence game.
"Brazen effrontery.
"Breathes defiance.
"Cy Poetic Warman.
"Poet-press agents.
"Feline monstrosity.
"Astounding petition.
"President Fitz-promise-hugh.
"English-Canadian octopus.
"Five thousand miles of tentacles.
"Snaps its fingers at the people's representatives.
"A little one-horse railroad reaching to the Canadian line.
"The Norman Whites and the others who always stood for the downtrodden when the New Haven was trying to move a train without getting tied up with the law!"

The same writer, speaking of the people who are enthusiastically in favor of the coming of the Grand Trunk, is permitted to call them "easy marks," "hayseeds and whiskers," and an "all-too-credulous multitude." Are these the terms to be applied to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Worcester Board of Trade and its 1,100 members, and the members of the Essex County Associated Boards of Trade, all of whose messages were officially delivered to the Committee on Railroads last week at the State House?

There is no desire here to begin or to engage in a newspaper controversy. This is not the time for it. There is ONE BIG QUESTION BEFORE THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS. That question is throwing open the doors of the Commonwealth, for the great good of all Massachusetts and all New England, to a transcontinental railroad which has expressed its willingness to come. So we shall have done, for the time, with the gentleman of the Herald, calling attention to but one more of his comments and, IN THE NAME OF THE COMMERCIAL ORGANIZATIONS OF MASSACHUSETTS, thanking him for it.

He says, and plainly he has reference to the objection of the Grand Trunk to laying down specific plans at this time, because to do so might cost upwards to $3,000,000 to greedy real estate sharps—he says:

> "The law was passed in 1906, and it was passed specifically to PREVENT THE VERY THING THAT THE GRAND TRUNK WANTS TO DO."

It was, indeed! and the same thought has lately been in the minds of many of the busy men who have appeared before the Railroad Committee. It was passed, apparently, to KEEP NEW RAILROADS OUT OF MASSACHUSETTS!

Let us take up now the Evening Record and its warning, for which everybody interested ought to be GRATEFUL to the Record, that a powerful lobby is already at work. Says the Record:

> "OPEN opposition to the Grand Trunk has not been and is not conspicuous on Beacon Hill, but it is APPARENT THAT A POWERFUL LOBBY IS WORKING TO CHECK THE ADVANCE OF THE NEW ROAD INTO BOSTON by all legitimate means."

The Boston AMERICAN does not believe it possible for any interest, HOWEVER BIG, to keep the Grand Trunk Railway out of Massachusetts. It does not believe that members of the Legislature are going back on the UNANIMOUS invitation they extended to the Grand Trunk in response to the demand of substantially EVERY BOARD OF TRADE IN THE COMMONWEALTH.

At the same time, forewarned is forearmed. After a while, perhaps, the hidden opposition will come into the open.

In the meantime, public hearings on the petition of the Southern New England, substantially all of whose stock is owned by the Grand Trunk Railway, "for authority to construct a line of railroad from the New Hampshire boundary line through Middlesex County and through a town in Norfolk County into the city of Boston," were resumed today at the State House and will be continued.

There is likely to be some delay in these hearings from time to time, and the representatives of trade organizations may as well be prepared for them. The patriotic sacrifice of some time NOW may be the means of getting a Grand Trunk bill through the Legislature without unnecessary delay and without scandal.

Girlies I Have Known

By MICHELSON

Perchance YOU like the bold athletic kind.
I don't—Melissa seemed to suit my mind.
She thought a timid mouse
Could overwhelm the house,
And her delicious terrors struck me blind.

The daring task of boarding a canoe
To her would mean a desperate to-do;
But I (for men are queer)
Delighted in her fear
And that vague hint of petticoats in view.

Her little brother, steeped in cruel sin,
Set off a jumping-jack beneath her chin.
She fainted, and my arms
(I thought) held all the charms
That ever were, since Earth began to spin.

But when Melissa introduced her pets—
Snakes, lizards, turtles, toads and marmosets,
And toyed with them in sight,
'Twas I who got the fright,
And rushed away to look for better bets.

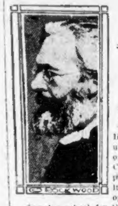
DR. PARKHURST'S ARTICLE

THE GIVING OF DANCES BY A CHURCH

Written for the Boston American

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst



DANCES are being held in Guild Hall, Milwaukee, under the auspices of St. James' Church, and it is prepared to extend its scheme by the opening of a free dancing school for the children of the parish.

The plan is adopted as means of combating the public dance hall, which is charged with the ruin of thousands of young girls every year.

Their method of saving girls is going to rouse to indignation a certain type of religious sensibility which would almost rather see the poor things ruined than have them saved by means not provided for by the tenets of a narrow traditionalism.

It is unfortunate that there are so many people engaged in the work of salvation that are quite unappreciative of certain native instincts—and quite proper ones, too—that go to compose the personal make-up of the people they are attempting to save. This is no criticism upon their integrity or the sincerity of their convictions. Nor is it to forget that safety lies on the side of conservatism rather than on that of a spirit of hasty innovations. But the fact of the case is that there are certain things that young people are going to do; that it is even the law of their physical constitution to do, so that it is a violation of their constitution if they don't do them.

Matter of Nature for a Young Girl to Dance

And dancing is one of them. It is as much a matter of nature for a young girl to dance as for a calf or a kitten to frolic. It is a species of physical appetite. Even the adult's toes will twitch accompaniment to dance music. This appetite is an ordinance of the girl's being, and if it it suppressed at a good point it will break out at a bad point.

A great deal of young deviltry is simply the result of wholesome impulse that has been throttled. More than half of a boy's mischievousness is due to the abrupt and forcible closing of the avenues of egress. Any locomotive boiler will explode if too much pressure is put upon the throttle. Now, that is evidently the idea of these Milwaukee church men and church women. The girls of Milwaukee are going to dance. Animal spirits that have no vent to govern them are destined to an explosion, and when it comes it will come in a way that is disastrous.

One problem that the church has to solve is how to conduct off accumulated physical pressure in a way, and under such circumstances and with such an environment, that the process may result harmlessly.

Any comprehensive scheme of salvation will have to deal considerately with the animal impulse as well as with the moral and spiritual ones.

* * *

AS one goes about among people and talks with them about existing conditions in state, society and church, one finds many whose mental condition is one of thorough discouragement.

If, for example, a judge proves to have rendered a decision that he is known, or suspected, to have been peculiarly influenced to render, our disconsolate and pessimistic friend dips his brush into that particular pigment and paints with it his entire picture of the judiciary. If a Senator is believed to have purchased his election he is taken as a fair exponent of senatorial character generally.

Proof of an Unsound Condition of the Heart

If a clergyman is known to have gone wrong the entire profession is discounted. No account is taken of the hundred judges the justice of whose decisions has never been impugned; of the hundred Senators whose integrity remains unchallenged; or of the cohort of clergymen who continue to be regarded as respectable.

This is neither just nor reasonable. It is not just, because the thought is a slanderous one, in that it mildly condemns without being able to offer a single reason for not according complete acquittal. It is not reasonable in that it is an extemporized conclusion resting upon no premises. It is the product of a distempered disposition rather than a conviction arrived at intelligently and logically.

It is a sort of film in the mental eye that throws a blur upon every object—man or thing—that it surveys. That, however, is not quite all there is to the case. It is proof of an unsound condition of heart.

The average man's interest fastens with more avidity upon what is bad than upon what is good. An evil deed fills a larger angle in his moral vision than a good deed does. He thinks more about it; his interest lingers longer with it and broods over it more clingingly. A blot makes more impression than the whole of the rest of the page though covered with penmanship as fine as steel engraving. And because the general public finds more satisfaction in reading about wickedness than about integrity, the newspapers give it a larger place in their columns, and then the public ungraciously turns around and charges the press with corrupting the public mind.

As a Rule, We Find the Thing We Look For

We need not credit the press with absolute innocence in the matter, but as a rule it will feed its constituency on just as pure food as it has the appetite for and the stomach to digest.

There are judges who are not as free from taint as Rhadamanthus; legislators who would blush if set up alongside of Solon; clergymen whose wings are still in a state of incipiency. But as a rule we shall find the thing we look for, and the world will very largely wear the complexion put upon it by our own eyes.

Then and Now

By PERCY SHAW

'TWAS not so long ago when schools
Were run by quaint and ancient rules.
Geography and spelling lay
Their gloom on many a perfect day;
Arithmetic and grammar made
The most audacious lad afraid.
While history, how many a game
Was interrupted in its name.

As for the girls, they learned to smirk,
Read French and do some fancy work;
To rattle off "The Maiden's Prayer,"
To paint on harmless chinaware;
To dance with many blushes, and
Uncannily to understand
When any partner asked to call
That fate was kindly after all.

Now all is changed; our Roman roots
Have banished been by crops and shoots;
Where once they fought declensions, we
Now fight disease of grain and tree;
Where once they parsed the time away
We try to make an acre pay;
Where once they scanned Virgilian odes
We scan increasing harvest loads.

As for the modern maid, she knows
"She reaps not best who always sews."
Therefore, where once her sisters sighed
On questions they could not decide,
She tells mankind the thing to do,
And mankind balks, but puts it through.
Adept in politics and game,
She's full as charming just the same.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

SHOULD FRAME EDITORIAL

Editor AMERICAN:

Since I first became able to read English I have been a constant reader and an admirer of your very educative editorials.

Many a time before, while reading some of your most impressive articles, I have felt the duty of expressing to you my gratefulness, but the thought that I write English correctly with difficulty has always kept me back.

This time I cannot help it. Please accept my heartiest congratulations on your editorial, "Science Has No Moral Sense, According to Reverend Gentlemen."

This, in my opinion, deserves to be framed and kept in the best place in every home.

FOR BETTER UNDERSTANDING

Editor AMERICAN:

Great questions are never settled in the heat of passion or of anger. But deliberately and orderly.

So in Lawrence, we should come to the point of a better understanding.

Conditions are not what they should be, but let us be sane and safe, not fiery and heated, but deliberate, sincere and earnest.
